EUROPE'S DEBT HOPE IS REVIVED BY BORAH PLAN

London Interprets Plea as Change in U. S. Public Opinion.

PRESIDENT HOOVER MUM ON PROPOSAL

Lewis Is Surprised; Smoot Sees No Reason for Further Sacrifices.

(Associated Press.)

Discussion of the war debt question echoed on both sides of the Atlantic yesterday Senator Borah's proposal for a world-wide program to settle postwar problems including revision or cancellation of the obligations to the United States.

On this side, Borah's proposal revived the debt problem, which has been virtually dormant since Congress last winter turned down President Hoover's proposal to recreate the debt funding commission.

The suggestion of the chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee was received warmly in most European capitals and aroused new hopes across the water for revision of debts.

Borah, in a Nation-wide radio speech, proposed an international conference at once to consider revision or cancellation of the war debts in connection with other postwar problems, including disarmament and monetary policies.

Hoover Silent on Proposal.

There was no intimation here of the reception given Borah's proposal in administration quarters. President Hoover read the speech in the morning papers at his Rapidan camp, but there was no comment from him. The State Department also was silent.

In other quarters, the speech was regarded with utmost importance, not only in view of Borah's position as chairman of the foreign relations committee, but because he is the outstanding spokesman in Congress on international affairs.

Although the Idaho Republican made it plain he would only consider revision or cancellation in connection with a general program for international economic rehabilitation and only from the standpoint of benefit to America, he went further than most other members of Congress.

Held Benefit to U. S.

While the sentiment on Capitol Hill has been almost unanimously against even a discussion of revision, Borah took the position that cancellation, with disarmament and settlement of other problems, would benefit this country.

Europe's first reaction apparently was to accept Borah's statement as indicating that he had been converted to cancellation and to ignore the conditions he made.

Questioned by telephone yesterday by a London newspaper, the senator denied he had changed his former position and reaffirmed his opposition to cancellation except under the conditions he stated.

Europe apparently paid little attention to the warning that revision of the war debts should not be based on the Lausanne reparations agree-

Mellon to Resign, London Paper Says

Also States He Will Tell Hoover of Demand for War Debts Cut.

London (Monday), July 25 (U.P.).—The usually well-informed Daily Herald said today that it is expected Andrew W. Mellon, United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, would resign on his present visit to Washington. The newspaper said Mellon would tell President Hoover the coming negotiations on war debts should be in the hands of a younger man.

The newspaper said it was believed Mellon intends to tell the President there is an urgent demand for drastic reduction or complete cancellation of Britain's war debt to the United States.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador to Washington, who is making a trip to London coincident with Mellon's journey, will inform Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of the United States' attitude toward war debts revision, the Daily Herald said.

It was recalled that Mellon, before leaving London, said his trip was purely for personal reasons, although he would spend some time in Washington. The Sunday Dispatch also carried a story saying political observers expected Mellon to resign.

British Chief Sees Triumph For Arms Cut

London, July 24 (U.P.).—The cause of disarmament is bound to triumph, Arthur Henderson, the British Laborite leader who presided at the Geneva arms conference, said today when he returned to London.

Defending actions of the conference and declaring the big powers must take the lead in cutting down the world's war machines, Henderson said:

"The only question is whether disarmament will triumph now or whether the world must have another long period of waiting with all the

FLANDIN ADVOCATES ABOLITION OF TARIFF

French Leader Blames Walls for Crisis; Reaction to Borah's Proposal.

Paris, July 24 (A.P.).—No country can protect itself against business depression by raising high tariff barriers, Pierre Flandin, former minister of finance, said today, and the best way to end the present economic crisis is to demolish tariff walls.

He spoke over the radio in an address rebroadcast to the United States. It was prepared before United States Senator Borah issued his statement of yesterday advocating a world conference to consider war debt revisions but it was nevertheless an answer to the Borah proposal.

"The machanism of reparations and war debt payments undoubtedly has become warped," he said, "and this condition has brought about serious monetary disorders throughout the world.

"To do away with these disorders intergovernmental payments might be stopped. Perhaps that is the simplest solution, but it is not the most just.

"That which warped the mechanism could also be abolished. That would be less simple, but much more equitable."

M. Flandin blamed the tariff system for present conditions, cited objections to its removal, and declared:

"Neither the last American tariff, the highest which ever existed, nor the new British tariff protected the United States or Great Britain against unemployment.

"The Lausanne conference brought a great advance in European opinion. It will be continued by the commission which will study the matter of restoration of the central European countries, and by an economic conference which must solve the problem of reducing the external indebtedness of certain nations, and the more general problem of international economic relations.

"However preoccupied American public opinion may be with its own

Hohenzollerns' Return Seen by Prince Wilhelm

Berlin, July 24 (U.P.).—Rumors of a possible return to power of the Hohenzollerns circulated with renewed vigor today as the result of a speech made by Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former kaiser, in which he said that his royal father soon would be home again and that the third German Empire is within sight.

The speech was made by the prince last night at a campaign meeting of Hitler's Fascists in the suburb of Spandau. The prince asserted that Prussia's iron fist again has been raised and that her enemies soon would be scattered.

SNAG IS STRUCK BY TARIFF PLEA OF 2 DOMINIONS

Buy-in-Cheapest-Market Slogan May Cause Opposition.

SOVIET HELD TARGET IN DEMAND FOR DUTY

Canada, South Africa and Australia Expected to Stand Together.

Ottawa, Ontario, July 24 (A.P.).—An axiom of the British milling industry—"buy in the cheapest market"—today presaged the first hint of conflict in the current imperial economic conference. It appeared as a specific barrier against the virtual demand from two of Great Britain's most important dominions for higher tariffs against foreign countries in general and Russia in particular.

The Dominion demand was first openly voiced by Stanley M. Bruce in an attack upon Soviet Russian market methods and a request for tariffs to protect Australian products.

The Australian's pronouncement set the delegations to scurrying through their brief cases for another look at the opening declaration of the Canadian premier, R. B. Bennett.

Agitation Against Russia.

There they found some more apparently anti-Russian sentiment in his warning against State-controlled standards of living, labor and dumping.

The impression now is that he was paving the way for the current three-cornered stand of Canada, Australia and South Africa for some sort of an embargo against Russian goods in the markets of the British Isles.

But British importers have not yet had their say, and it is a safe conjecture that they will not agree to any empire wheat preference likely to raise costs at home. Both the British millers and builders as well as the cotton textile concerns on the islands frankly had no program to offer the conference.

Problem of Living Costs.

Thus their reaction to the Dominion tariff idea has not found voice as yet, but unofficial observers pointed out their traditional reliance in the old axiom about the cheapest market. Too, there was the declaration of Stanley Baldwin, of the Brit-

2 Drown, 12 Saved As Cruiser Is Sunk

Tragedy Comes as Fishing Party's Boat Springs Leak in Michigan.

Algonac, Mich., July 24 (A.P.).—Two members of a fishing party drowned and twelve others were saved when their 18-foot cabin cruiser sprang a leak and sank in St. Clair River, 200 feet off shore, early today.

The dead: Lenore Swarthout, 11, and Mrs. Alice Black, 30, both of Dearborn, Mich.

Most of those on board, members of three Dearborn families, were trapped in the cabin when the boat went down. Carl Chors, of Marine City, a coowner of the craft, saved five of the six children on board by pulling them through a window and hoisting them to the roof of the cabin, which was the only part of the boat not submerged. Then they were taken off by canoeists and by the crew of a launch from the yacht of Mrs. Hugh Dilman, anchored nearby.

Bank Reports Bright; Building Awards Rise

Treasury Today Offers $422,369,000 Notes to Spur Relief.

(Associated Press.)

Keeping pace with the other Government machinery in the national relief drive, the Treasury is reaching out for new funds for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to invigorate business, create employment and aid the needy.

Secretary Mills announced yesterday the Treasury will borrow $422,369,000 to meet relief and other financial needs of the Government. Today it will offer for sale a total of $650,000,000 in Treasury notes, but $227,631,000 will be used to cancel indebtedness.

The task of providing new employment and spreading relief for destitution probably will be in actual operation before the end of the week. Already a promise of jobs for thousands of men is held out.

Soon after Secretary Hyde announced apportionment of $120,000,-

Failures Over Country, Excepting Chicago, Decrease in June.

(United Press.)

The huge relief machinery through which the Government hopes to deal a smashing blow against the depression was set in motion last night as the two other Federal agencies reported improved conditions in banking and business.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills offered for subscription $650,000,000 in Treasury notes. Of this money, $227,630,000 will be used to meet maturing obligations. The remainder will go into the coffers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to help finance the relief program.

Meantime, the Federal Reserve Board in its monthly statement reported improved banking conditions for June and the Commerce Department's report for the week ended July 16 was cheerful.

The reserve board statement said

TEXAS DEMOCRATS VOTE REFERENDUM

"Ma" Ferguson Is in Commanding Lead in Governorship Primary.

Dallas, Tex., July 24 (A.P.).—Demonstration anew of the political power of James E. and Miriam E. Ferguson and a demand for resubmission of the prohibition question were revealed as highlights of the Texas Democratic primary by tabulations today.

"Ma" Ferguson, 57-year-old grandmother, who was elected Governor of the Lone Star State in 1924 as a result of popular upheaval against the Ku Klux Klan, assumed a commanding lead in the race for the gubernatorial nomination.

Returns from 235 out of 254 counties, including 26 complete, gave the following vote:

Ferguson, 264,594; Gov. Ross S. Sterling, 191,428; Tom F. Hunter, 139,-944.

On the proposal to reconsider the prohibition question the vote was 218,963 for and 88,818 against.

The referendum was held on instructions of the State Democratic executive committee in most counties declined to submit for the most part on grounds of expense. Dallas County, one of the largest in the State, was one of those which did not submit the question.

In the race for three Congress-at-large places, leaders were George B. Terrell, former State treasurer; Joseph Weldon Bailey and Sterling P. Strong.

In the Seventeenth District, Representative Thomas L. Blanton was leading Joe H. Jones, of Eastland, by a narrow margin, the tabulation from seventeen counties, none complete, giving Blanton 19,988 and Jones, 18,-703.

Other representatives up for reelection had more comfortable leads. In the Thirteenth District, W. D. McFarlane maintained a big lead over George W. Backrus, of Vernon, for the Police Mass to Prevent Hosiery Mill Outbreak

High Point, N. C., July 24 (A.P.).—Peace officers mobilized today in answer to the challenge of striking hosiery workers, who threatened violence if the Diamond Full-Fashioned Mill opens tomorrow.

Every available officer was ordered on duty at the plant at 6:30 a. m. tomorrow. Unconfirmed reports received here today said State highway patrolmen were being sent to the city to aid local police.

2 VITAL DATES NEAR IN ROOSEVELT DRIVE

Walker Reply Due in Albany Wednesday, When Ely Will Confer With Nominee.

Albany, N. Y., July 24 (A.P.).—His two-day conferences with industrial and social leaders ended, Gov. Roosevelt came back to the capital tonight for a week marked with two engagements which may have an important bearing on his presidential campaign.

The events, both scheduled for Wednesday, are receipt of Mayor James J. Walker's reply to charges that he should be ousted and a visit from Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, outstanding Smith leader in New England.

With the Walker answer in his hands Roosevelt can shape his action toward disposal of the case that to a large extent has delayed final determination of his speaking tour. After the Walker response to Samuel Seabury's allegations that the Tammany Mayor used his office for personal gain is received, it is believed the record of the long legislative investigation into New York City affairs will be closed in two weeks.

It is considered likely that Mr. Roosevelt, before a decision, will hold a public hearing in Albany with Walker personally defending his record.

Ely, last of the Smith leaders to withhold indorsement of Roosevelt, is expected, after visiting the presidential nominee, to voice his approval of the Democratic ticket and perhaps also to toss his name into the Massachusetts campaign in an effort to win another term as governor.

Mr. Roosevelt also has before him the determination of where and when he will make the next speech in his drive for the Presidency. Although it has been stated he will open his campaign at Seagirt, N. J., on August 27, the nominee asserted he would make an address before that date.

Roosevelt Would Call Congress on Dry Law

Worcester, Mass., July 24 (U.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, if elected President, may call a special session of Congress to modify the Volstead act, his eldest son, James, today told members of the Worcester Democratic club at their clam-bake at Paxton. Young Roosevelt said the special session would be called "if necessary" and would be a measure to increase employment.

The candidate's son predicted "an artificial boom in the stock market in September and October for the purpose of misleading the citizens."

'PIT' IN CHICAGO TO IGNORE U. S. ORDER FOR BAN

Carey Announces Plans for Fight, "All Way to Supreme Court."

FEELS PRICE EFFECT WILL NOT BE SERIOUS

Leaders in Kansas City Area to Make Protest Against Federal Suspension.

Chicago, July 24 (U.P.).—Business men in the great Middle Western wheat empire tonight pondered what possible affect on wheat prices there would be as result of the Federal Government's suspension for 60 days of the Chicago Board of Trade license.

President Peter B. Carey, who announced the board would battle through every necessary court to keep the exchange open, said he believed prices would not be seriously affected.

Other experts said small traders already were frightened and that they probably would start selling. Others insisted that the shorts themselves were afraid of the suspension order and that they would try to close out their accounts immediately, thus sending prices skyrocketing.

Carey said meanwhile that if the board of trade should close, even temporarily, "utter chaos" would descend upon America's grain trade, upon the country's stock and bond markets and ultimately upon all the Nation's business.

"But the board of trade is not going to close, Federal orders notwithstanding, until we thrash the case all the way to the Supreme Court, if necessary," Carey said. Directors will map their legal battle Tuesday.

Will Ignore Order.

He gave up his customary Sunday golf to advertise as widely as possible his intention of ignoring the suspension order. He feared that if traders believed the board might close August 6 in accordance with the commission's ruling, the gong at 9:30 tomorrow morning would usher in one of the most demoralized trading sessions in the history of the exchange.

If the board were to close, he said, many farmers would be ruined. They would be unable to borrow money at the banks because they could not engage in hedging operations, while the millers and other ultimate consumers

Tariff Advocated In Roosevelt Book

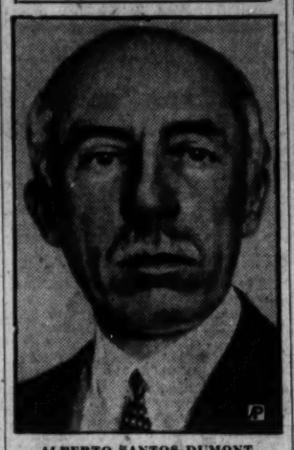
Would Give Protection to Wheat and Cotton in "New Policy."

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt advocates tariff protection for cotton and wheat growers in an article on "Restoring Purchasing Power," one of 23 contained in a book of his writings published tomorrow.

"We must adopt a new policy for wheat and cotton," says the Democratic presidential nominee, "laying down a new principle that our farmers are entitled to tariff protection for that portion of their crops which is used in this country.

"Wheat and cotton are the two great money crops. Over one-third of our population is dependent upon them. If we can restore a degree of prosperity to this large mass of our population no one can deny that an artificial—even if only a temporary—method is justified by the probable results."

AVIATOR DEAD



ALBERTO SANTOS-DUMONT.

SANTOS-DUMONT, 59, NOTED AIRMAN, DIES

Brazilian Amazed World as Pioneer in Plane Building; Ill for Some Time.

Rio de Janeiro, July 24 (U.P.).—The death of Alberto Santos-Dumont, who amazed the world as a pioneer in development of airships, was reported in a radio message from Bello Horizonte today. The death was confirmed tonight by the army radio service. His fifty-ninth birthday was last Wednesday.

The world-famous aviator had been ill for some time. Bello Horizonte is in Minas Gereas state, far in the interior of Brazil. In recent months, Santos-Dumont, who spent much of his life in Europe, had been in Sao Paulo, which is now cut off from the rest of Brazil because of the rebellious movement in that area.

Santos-Dumont became one of Brazil's most famous citizens as a result of his exploits in the air and his family was one of the most prominent in the rich coffee-growing state of Sao Paulo. He was decorated with the chevalier of the Legion of Honor in 1904, after piloting an airship around the Eiffel Tower, and received the officer's cross in 1909.

Just before the turn of the century, when the erudite and elderly German Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin turned his attention to rigid aircraft, a young Brazilian with the unquenchable enthusiasm of the true pioneer also found a strange fascination in the problem of directing lighter-than-air ships in flight.

The hazards of flight in that day—a decade before the plane came into its own—meant nothing to the wealthy son of one of Brazil's leading families—Alberto Santos-Dumont. He built a series of fourteen small airships, none of them in the "rigid" fashion Count von Zeppelin advocated, and flew them to a remarkable succession of mishaps and triumphs.

Some of his ships made untimely landings on fields, in trees and on

Capt. Von Gronau Lands In Southwest Greenland

Copenhagen (Monday), July 25 (A.P.).—Reuters News Agency reported early today that the German intercontinental flier, Wolfgang von Gronau, who left Reykjavik, Iceland, yesterday, had landed at Julianehaab, Greenland.

The agency said Von Gronau had alighted at the southwestern Greenland settlement at 8 p. m., British summer time (2 p. m., Eastern standard time) yesterday. Von Gronau started for America by the northern route from List, Isle of Sylt, on Friday.

BONUS LEADERS BATTLE OUSTER IN COURT TODAY

572 MORE VETERANS OBTAIN FARE LOANS

Right to Occupy Grounds to Form Basis of Plea for Injunction.

The bonus veterans awoke this morning to face with grim patience a week that may send them scattering back to the four corners of the Nation whence they came.

Leaders of the main body are expected to go into court today to seek an injunction restraining the Treasury Department from evicting approximately 3,000 of the veterans from their encampments here on grounds under jurisdiction of the fiscal branch of the Government.

Police received word last night that the radical element, of whom John Pace, Detroit, is chieftain, plans to picket the White House at noon today. Mingling with Government luncheon crowds, the left wing veterans hope to reach their goal before the executive mansion, police learned.

A twenty-man detail was ordered to report at 11 a. m. at the Third Precinct Station to augment a reserve force already held there to guard the White House.

Extended Time Expires.

The extended time for issuance of transportation loans to the veterans expired at midnight last night. The final number of applications was announced as 5,509. During the day 572 applied. The zero hour passed without the slightest ripple of excitement. Only a score or so veterans made application during the last hour.

Arrangements had been made by Veterans Administration officials and police to handle last-minute seekers of loans for fare home. Word was flashed through the camps that application blanks were available at police stations and that motorcycle policemen would rush them to the Veterans Administration. Only a scant dozen took advantage of this proffer.

Tickets actually purchased up to midnight last night totaled 4,298, with 4,118 of that number already having departed by train. The difference between the former figure and the 5,509 applications was made up between those who had not been finally approved and those who received money for automobile transportation. Between $75,000 and $80,000 is believed to have been expended on sending the veterans home.

The evacuation request of the Treasury Department strikes at two heavy centers of bonus marchers here—the area between Third and Sixth streets northwest, Pennsylvania and Missouri avenues and Twelfth and Fourteenth streets southwest, and B and C streets.

Outwardly Unperturbed.

Last night the campers at the latter areas appeared outwardly unperturbed. Campfires and stoves were bearing the brunt of the usual scanty evening meal. The ingeniously constructed hodge-podges of shelter housed the same men who have occupied them for a month. There were no indications of complying with the Treasury order.

Walter W. Waters, commander of the bonus army, has publicly asserted his belief that his men have the right to occupy the Government ground. This will form the basis of his plea to the courts today for an injunction restraining the Treasury from enforcing the order, it is expected. Legal counsel has been retained, but the

Hoover's Fortune Shows Big Shrinkage Since 1914

Personal Wealth Down to $700,000 From Estimated Total of $4,000,000, Magazine Reveals; Investments and Contributions Take Huge Toll.

New York, July 24.—Herbert Hoover's personal fortune, says the magazine Fortune in its August issue, out tomorrow, has shrunk to $700,000 from an estimated $4,000,000 at the time of his retirement from business in 1914.

The shrinkage is attributed principally to interest in an investment company whose acquisitions are described mostly as liabilities. Mr. Hoover and some friends formed the company in 1920 with a capital of $2,000,000.

While the investment company made the largest dent, the magazine says, Mr. Hoover's wealth was reduced materially by expenses in connection with the Belgian relief and the peace conference and other public contributions.

At the age of 30, says the magazine, Mr. Hoover's capital was $500,000, amassed from various mining enterprises. That was in 1908.

About that time he increased his holdings in the then deserted Burma lead, silver, zinc and copper mines, which now are the richest of their kind in the world, the article continues, because he was convinced they had not been exhausted.

With development, the property appreciated, and the magazine places his return at between $2,850,000 and $3,000,000 when he sold his interest from 1915 to 1918. The magazine says Mr. Hoover made a $600,000 profit on the Bishopsgate Syndicate, Ltd., a Roumanian oil property, and most of the remainder of the $4,000,000 from various salaries and bonuses as a consultant and director.

The $15,000 salary reduction President Hoover recently ruled himself is estimated to amount to a cut of 13 per cent in relation to his total income.

President Relaxes At Rapidan Camp

Enjoying Complete Rest, He May Not Return Until Tomorrow.

Luray, Va., July 24 (A.P.).—Enjoying a complete rest, President Hoover today strolled about his mountain camp under a warm sun tempered somewhat by a cooling breeze. He gave some attention to the news of the day, reading of Senator Borah's suggestion for an immediate world conference to consider revision or cancellation of war debts.

A marine airplane flew over the camp in the morning, dropping bundles of newspapers and White House mail.

Mrs. Hoover, who has been at the camp for two weeks, and personal friends, were with the President. He will remain until tomorrow morning at least. There was a possibility he might not return to Washington until Tuesday.

District Flier, 59, Smashes His Plane

Charles A. Johnson, Recent Licensee, Unhurt in Crash at Baltimore.

Charles A. Johnson, a 59-year-old aviation enthusiast and machinist at the Navy Yard, was forced to make an emergency landing in Baltimore yesterday when his motor stopped while flying over the city. The plane crashed, but he was unhurt.

Johnson, who lives at 3024 Seventh street southeast, and who received his private pilot license three weeks ago, took off in another plane a few minutes later to view the wreckage of his craft.

He took off from a Baltimore airport, and a short time later motor trouble developed. He picked a field in the western part of the city for a landing. The plane rolled along the ground and nosed over in a ditch. He intends to have the plane repaired and continue flying.

Plane Today Will Retrace Journeys of Washington

His Collateral Descendant Will Fly With Maj. Doolittle on 157th Anniversary of Postal Service Founding; 14 States on Day's Itinerary.

Newark, N. J., July 24 (U.P.).—A high-speed Lockheed monoplane, piloted by Maj. James Doolittle, and carrying as passenger Miss Ann Madison Washington collateral descendant of George Washington, left Newark today for Providence, R. I., en route to Kittery, Me., where, tomorrow they will begin a dawn-to-dusk flight covering 14 States.

The flight is being made to commemorate the 157th anniversary of the founding of the United States postal service, and 50 packages of mail will be dropped at various points as the big plane roars over the routes followed by George Washington in his travels.

Maj. Doolittle and Miss Washington planned to stop overnight at Providence and take off tomorrow at dawn for Kittery.

The first package will be dropped at Kittery, then the plane will speed southward to Portsmouth, N. H., Boston, Providence, New Haven, White Plains and New York City. Crossing the Hudson, Doolittle will drop a package at historic Morristown, N. J., and then will speed over Monmouth Court House, and on to Trenton, Philadelphia, Valley Forge, Wilmington, Annapolis and Washington.

A brief refueling stop will be made at the National Capital, then the flight will continue over the Potomac to Mount Vernon. From there Doolittle will turn south to Fredericksburg, Va., and Wakefield, Va., George Washington's birthplace. Thence the plane will proceed to the old colonial town of Williamsburg, and on to Yorktown, the scene of the final victory of the Revolution.

From Yorktown Doolittle will sweep in a wide circle over the Dismal Swamp, Sunbury, N. C., to Christians-

LIVING MODE VIEWED AS FACTOR IN SLUMP

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press.)

London, July 24.—The American penchant for steam heat, fashion's foibles and the comfort of inclosed motor cars has had a great part in creating a problem which economists of the world soon will discuss in international conference.

On the agenda of the forthcoming world economic and monetary conference will be the subject known to Washington as "stabilization of commodity prices" and known to the Lausanne conference as "level of prices."

Steam heat, fashion changes and inclosed motor cars all have contributed to the necessity for this conference, economists point out.

The depression, economists say, can be directed toward a happy conclusion if commodity prices may be raised. Lower prices for commodities reduce purchasing powers of commodity producers. Higher commodity prices will bring additional purchasing prices.

Drop in Motor Cars.

Automobile and farm machinery manufacture suffered because the American farmer received less money for his wheat. Japanese agriculturists suffered when raw silk prices decreased. The percentage decrease in agricultural price indices from June, 1929, to June, 1931, was 33½ per cent and on wholesale indices of raw materials the decrease was 30 per cent.

Prior to that period there had been a steady increase, beginning in 1925.

American farm crops in 1931 were considerably below the $6,300,000,000 of 1830 and this compared with $8,700,000,000 in 1920.

At present producers' stocks are high and consumers' stocks low. There is room for replenishment. Already in the United States there have been signs of increase in commodity prices and economists are hopeful that before the international conference there will be a definite, natural upswing.

But to return to steam heat, inclosed motor cars and fashions.

Decline in Use of Wool.

The rapid advance of steam heat usage reduced the demand for woolen clothing. Back in 1891 wool-producing nations—particularly Australia and New Zealand—started for mass production. In 1891 Australian sheep gave a wool clip of 640,752,656 pounds. In the season of 1928-1929, sheep gave 950,000,000 pounds. But by that time the world's chief wool-importing countries—Great Britain, United States, Germany, France, Belgium, Italy and Japan—could not absorb the supply because improved heating systems, inclosed motor cars, &c., had eliminated the necessity for heavy woolen clothing.

Likewise the advent of the motor car reduced the demand for horses, thereby striking at another industry—horse raising—and subsequently struck at usage of cereal grains.

Paris back a few years ago decreed shorter skirts. It was a popular vogue which swept the world. Women were freed of useless long skirts.

But the cotton planters of the United States, the silk growers of Japan, the sheep grazers of Australia and Argentine suffered mightily. Shorter skirts meant less material. Less material meant less raw products. Less raw products meant reduction of demand, which hurt the producers.

Cotton Production Costs.

The estimated cost to produce a pound of cotton on Southern plantations in the United States is 12 cents a pound. Below that planters cannot make the barest living. The price of cotton recently has been below five cents—the bottom since 1894-98. Cotton production throughout the world has increased. The average world crop between 1919 and 1925 was less than 23,000,000 bales. The average for the next four years was 28,000,000 bales, with the United States stepping up its average from 12,400,000 bales to 16,200,000 bales, due chiefly to a bumper crop of 1926.

Raw silk output in 1928 was the highest ever recorded. Production has dropped some since then, but not sufficiently to prevent disastrous price falls. New York silk prices in January, 1927—and New York has supplanted Lyons, France, as the silk center of the world—were about the normal prewar rate of $5.60 a pound. In April, 1931, silk was quoted at only $2.45, and early this year at $1.10.

Germans Are Gratified At Conference Proposal

Berlin, July 24 (A.P.).—Senator Borah's proposal for consideration of debt revision at a new world conference was received with gratification at the German foreign office.

A spokesman said this American initiative should have a tremendous moral effect. He recalled that the German delegation to the recent Lausanne conference made a similar suggestion.

Italy Silent on Debts Revision Meeting Idea

Rome, Italy, July 24 (A.P.).—The foreign office had no comment for the moment today on the Borah proposal for a world debt conference.

It was possible that nothing will be said officially because Borah spoke unofficially.

ARMS CUT TRIUMPH SEEN BY HENDERSON

misery and suffering that waiting must involve.

"But in the end, I am convinced the cause of disarmament is bound to triumph."

A crowd cheered the former foreign secretary, who was with Sir Herbert Samuel, the home secretary, returning from the conferences in Switzerland. Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, also arrived by airplane from Geneva, but Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald canceled his scheduled flight from Lossiemouth, where he has been resting for several days, to confer with the cabinet Thursday.

Henderson's defense of the arms conference held the center of interest, in view of the wide criticism of the "weak" resolution adopted over the opposition of Soviet Russia and Germany, which laid the basis for future negotiations on disarmament.

Edith McCormick Asks Aid Of Former Mate in Crisis

Worried Over Lost Riches, She Sends Emissaries to Seek His Advice.

Chicago, July 24 (U.P.).—High above the purring traffic on Michigan boulevard, a middle-aged, sickly woman sat alone tonight in a room in the Drake Hotel, host to clamorous memory and phantom fears.

The surge of Lake Michigan against the breakwater was dismal overtone to the thoughts of Edith Rockefeller McCormick, 59, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, once the world's wealthiest woman, long arbiter of Chicago society and a dominant and independent mistress of her own life and love.

Ill health and financial misfortune have directed her life in new channels. She is so ill that only occasionally is she able to go for a drive at dusk along the boulevards and through the parks of the Gold Coast region where she has ruled so long in dining salon and ballroom.

She has been so worried over her depleted fortune, once estimated at $50,000,000, that she has sent emissaries to her former husband, Harold F. McCormick, to seek his advice. Although McCormick's Rush street home is but three blocks from the Drake, the two were worlds apart in their estrangement.

Immediately across the street from the Drake is the mansion at 1000 Lake Shore drive, where Mrs. McCormick was gracious host in distant and even recent days to the notables of the world. On pleasant days, she goes across to the stately home closed now and with blinds drawn, to sit in the garden.

Usually with her there and during siestas on the cool hotel "boat deck" of the Drake that overlooks the lake is her faithful adviser, Edwin Krenn, Swiss architect and art connoisseur.

MRS. EDITH R. McCORMICK, once the world's richest woman, who now is ill and beset by worries as the result of the depletion of her $50,000,000 fortune. She has closed her mansion.

Mrs. McCormick and her close friends know that he is an intellectual and a charming companion, a brilliant musician and the owner, at least until recently, of a $2,000,000 collection of jade idols—one of the finest in the world.

The story of Mrs. McCormick's thoughtfulness in taking losses on her stock holdings rather than have small holders suffer is matched by the way she handled her retinue of servants when she closed her home. With her at the Drake are her secretary and her maid. The numerous other servants are all working in the homes of other society folks, at jobs procured for them by their former mistress.

U. S. STILL LEADING IN TRADE OF WORLD

Holds Position, in Spite of Dollar Falling Off, in Exports and Imports.

(Associated Press.)

The United States is retaining its leadership in world trade despite the dollars-and-cents falling off in exports and imports.

The Commerce Department, in a brochure by Grace A. Witherow, of the Division of Economic Research, said yesterday this country held its place in 1931 as a leader in exports and was second only to Great Britain as an importing country. The United Kingdom for many years has led as importer of raw materials.

Shipments of raw cotton and fruits were larger than in 1930. Radios and electric refrigerators established new quantity sales records abroad. But there were further sharp reductions in exports of automobiles, copper, heavy iron and steel products and other manufactured articles.

"The marked decline in dollar values of the United States foreign trade during 1931 was attributable in large part to sharp declines in prices which affected all classes of commodities," said Miss Witherow. "The physical volume of exports showed a decline of 20 per cent as compared with 1930 while imports were only 10 per cent smaller.

"Inasmuch as domestic industrial production fell off 16 per cent and freight carloadings dropped 19 per cent, the shrinkage in foreign trade was about as great as the decline in domestic business, the decrease in exports being slightly larger and in imports somewhat smaller.

"Measured in terms of dollars, exports decreased from $3,843,000,000 in 1930 to $2,424,000,000 in 1931, or 37 per cent, while the value of imports declined 32 per cent from $3,061,000,000 to $2,091,000,000."

League Officials Hail Debts Revision Parley

Geneva, Switzerland, July 24 (A.P.). Consideration of war debts revision by a world conference, as proposed by United States Senator Borah, would be a valuable sequel to the Lausanne conference, League of Nations officials said today.

Such a conference, they declared, should pave the way to European economic recovery and hasten the return of prosperity throughout the world.

Wide Comment in Europe.

The statement attracted widespread official interest in Europe, in many parts of which Borah is considered as important a spokesman on such questions as President Hoover.

The German foreign office received the Borah speech with gratification. A spokesman said it should have a tremendous moral effect.

League of Nations officials held that the world conference proposed by the senator would be a valuable sequel to the Lausanne conference.

Official comment in Paris was not forthcoming, but the Nationalist Journal Des Debats viewed the speech as a change of front. La Liberte characterized the proposal as another threat to France.

Seen as Change in Opinion.

Official comment was withheld in London, but the address was well received in unofficial quarters, where it was interpreted as indicating a change in American public opinion.

Most of Borah's Senate colleagues were away from Washington, either for the summer or the week-end, but Senator Lewis (Democrat), of Illinois, a member of his committee, expressed surprise.

Lewis said he was "little less than astonished" that Borah should propose to put the war debt question up to a conference controlled by the countries owing money to the United States.

Chairman Smoot (Republican), of Utah, of the Senate finance committee, which considers war debt legislation, said:

"I know no reason why we should make any further sacrifices. I can't see what we could gain and I think our sacrifices have been all that the other countries could ask."

FIRM STATUS NOTED BY FEDERAL RESERVE

Glass-Steagall Act Bolsters Support for Currency; 15 Banks Reopen.

(Associated Press.)

Row on row of printed figures in a prosaic bulletin again tell the story of the strong position of the Federal Reserve system.

Faced by heavy foreign gold withdrawals last month, these figures show, the Federal Reserve Banks had reserves of $2,782,000,000 and held $942,000,000 in gold in excess of legal requirements.

The Reserve Board's monthly review said yesterday that in May and June there was a loss of $425,000,000 in the country's stock of monetary gold, due largely to withdrawals of balances accumulated by foreign central banks. By the middle of June those balances had been reduced to a comparatively small amount, and in the latter part of the month there was an increase in the gold stock.

Securities Are Pledged.

"Total reserves of the Federal Reserve Banks on June 29 were $2,782,000,000," the board said. "Of this amount, $738,000,000 in gold or lawful money was necessary as the 35 per cent required against deposits of the Reserve banks and $1,102,000,000 in gold as the 40 per cent required against Federal Reserve notes. The Federal Reserve Banks, therefore, after having met the withdrawals of foreign balances, held $942,000,000 in gold in excess of their legal requirements, of these reserves $876,000,000 was available as reserves exclusively against Federal Reserve notes, as it was held with Federal Reserve agents and in the redemption fund in the United States Treasury, while the remaining $66,000,000 was available as reserves either against notes or against deposits."

During May and June, the board said banks pledged $607,000,000 of Government securities in the place of eligible paper to back currency, thus taking advantage of the Glass-Steagall act, and releasing gold which had been put up in excess of the 40 per cent legal requirement. The banks also held $1,194,000,000 of Government securities not pledged.

French Stocks Highest.

Touching on the foreign field, the board said that the Bank of France in the last year had increased its gold holdings until on June 24 they reached the highest in its history, amounting to $3,200,000,000, an increase of $125,000,000 in a month and $1,006,000,000 in a year.

The total gold held by the United States on July 20 amounted to $3,952,000,000. The reserves of the Bank of England increased $52,000,000 in the month and $132,000,000 in the year to $660,000,000; and Germany's gold reserves declined $8,000,000 in the month and dropped $140,000,000 in the year, to $196,000,000. Italy increased her gold reserves $1,000,000 in the month and $17,000,000 for the year, to $298,000,000.

The board reported 144 banks with total deposits of $159,579,000 had closed in June, while 15 banks with $9,004,000 had reopened.

Virginia's Closed Banks Pay Back Large Sums

(Associated Press.)

Deposits released through reopening of closed banks came within $240,000 of equaling deposits tied up by bank failures for the first six months of the year in Virginia.

Eight banks, one national and seven nonmembers of the Federal Reserve system, failed during the first half of the year. Federal Reserve statistics made public yesterday showed they had deposits of $831,000. Two banks, with deposits of $591,000, reopened during the same period. Two banks, with deposits of $86,000, failed during June.

Man, 75, Dies in Effort For Drowning Children

Cannelton, Ind., July 24 (A.P.).—George W. Hufnagel, 75, retired president and general manager of the Cannelton Milling Co., drowned today in the Ohio River here in a futile attempt to save his grandson and a girl companion.

The grandson, Quentin Feder, 8, with his companion, Bessie Cummings, was wading in the river when they went out beyond their depth. The aged man went to their rescue, but was unable to reach them before they sank and drowned. Hufnagel was drawn under by the current and also drowned before aid could reach him.

NUMEROUS CLASHES MAR REICH HOLIDAY

Nazis Figure in Disorders; Paper Banned as Another Predicts Monarchy.

Berlin (Monday), July 25 (A.P.).—Germany's first week-end with virtual dictatorship existing in Prussia and Brandenburg passed with no deaths reported up until 2 a. m. today in political clashes.

(Last week-end nearly a score were killed and around 100 injured in various disturbances. This was before a presidential decree virtually put the most important state of the Reich under the army.)

There were a number of clashes in various parts of the Reich, however, to mar the Sabbath.

Five were injured in an affray at Augsburg when a cavalcade of Nazi trucks passed through the working class district and was jeeringly met with cries of "Hail, Moscow!"

War Veterans Routed.

Fifteen were injured at Mandelsloh, near Hanover, when the Nazis routed 200 Iron Front (war veterans) handbill distributors. Six Nazis were mauled by opponents in a free-for-all at Neumenster. At Boebling six were injured in a clash involving several political factions.

Police arrested Communist leaders at Essen yesterday to forestall a counter-demonstration when Adolf Hitler, the Nazi leader, spoke there.

Gen. von Rundstedt, the new Prussian commissioner, today forbade the use of loud speakers on mounted trucks for the election campaign in Berlin and Brandenburg.

Berlin, July 24 (U.P.).—Sections of the German press bitterly attacked the government today, charging a plan to restore the monarchy, but the cabinet's only reply was to suppress another "left wing" newspaper.

Plebiscite is Demanded.

Gen. Gerd von Runstedt, commander of the Berlin area under Defense Minister Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, banned the democratic Berliner Volkszeitung, published by Rudolf Mosse, for five days because it published an article called "Masters and Lackeys," intimating that the military is curtailing the rights of private citizens similar to the situation existing long before the World War.

Meanwhile, the newspaper Tageblatt at Munich, published an article by Fritz Gerlich, editor of the Catholic political review, Der Gerade Weg, charging that Gen. von Schleicher, who is considered the most powerful figure in the cabinet, is seeking to overthrow the republican constitution and reestablish the monarchy.

Gerlich demanded the government arrange a plebiscite under article 43 of the republican constitution to vote on unseating President Paul von Hindenburg and impeaching the supreme court at Leipzig, which is called upon to decide whether the cabinet's action was legal in setting up a dictatorship in Prussia.

U. S. TODAY OFFERS $650,000,000 IN NOTES

000 to States for emergency construction on the Federal-aid highway system, the Minnesota State engineer estimated that 10,000 would be employed on roads there. From North Dakota came word that another 3,000 would be put to work.

President Hoover during the coming week must find two outstanding men to fill places on the Reconstruction Corporation's board. Then the machinery will be thrown into high gear. Plans for starting self-sustaining construction by States, counties, cities and semipublic agencies out of the $1,500,000,000 provided for it under the new $2,122,000,000 relief act will be launched. That means more jobs.

Already applications are coming in from States for loans from the $300,000,000 fund to help the unfortunate. The corporation, however, Saturday notified governors that these loans would be delayed until policies are formulated and surveys made. But this, it said, will be done promptly.

The notes the Treasury will offer for sale will be in two series both dated and bearing interest from August 1. One series will be for $325,000,000, to run two years and bear 2½ per cent interest; while the second will be for the same amount, will run for four years and carry interest at 3¼ per cent.

"Outstanding certificates of indebtedness in the amount of $227,631,000 are due on August 1," Secretary Mills said. "The new offering will provide funds for this maturity, and also to meet curent financial requirements, principally for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

BANKING CONDITIONS BETTER; BUILDING AWARDS INCREASE

reduction in indebtedness was reported by member banks in most of the reserve districts. Despite the drain on currency caused by gold withdrawals from abroad and banking disturbances in the Chicago district, the reserve banks met the situation without increasing their indebtedness.

Because of this, the board said, conditions in the money market remained easy and there were further declines in the open market money rates.

Bank failures throughout the Nation, with the exception of the Chicago district, declined during June, the board stated. Seventy-six banks were suspended and six reopened in the Chicago area, and no further trouble is expected there by authorities.

During the six months period from January to June, a total of 162 banks with aggregate assets of $102,520,000, were reopened.

The Commerce Department reported a sharp gain during the first half of July in building contract awards, the daily average volume for the period being the largest so far this year with the exception of the last week in May.

cultural prices. Business failures, the department said, were sharply reduced, the weekly total being the smallest for any week this year.

Spirit of Panic Is Dying, A. F. of L. Report States

(United Press.)

The American Federation of Labor said yesterday that recent developments "have improved the foundation for confidence in business."

"The spirit of panic is at last dying down," the federation's monthly review of business says, citing these favorable factors.

"Balancing the Federal budget, end of gold shipments to Europe, improvement in bond prices, the Lausanne agreement ending reparations. A rise of commodity prices from June 18 to July 16 is cheering news, but it is too soon to tell whether it will last. Farm income promises to be higher this year."

The review adds, "It is impossible to tell whether recent gains will last. They are not enough to stimulate productive activity."

The federation said unemployment was still increasing. It said the number out of work in June approached 11,000,000 and "trade union figures for July show another large increase."

Boy Drowns After Baptism.

Idabel, Okla., July 24 (A.P.).—Garth Hullen, 12, drowned in Little River today a few minutes after he had been baptised. Members of the baptismal party were wading following the ceremony when it was discovered the boy was missing.

Plot for Throne Linked in Killing

Police in New York Visit Red Organizations in Quest for Clews.

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Into the councils of communism police were boring tonight to unravel the mystery behind the slaying of two Russians plotting the restoration of the Romanoffs to the imperial throne.

Longin Kovtoun, obscure tailor by day and ardent royalist by night, and an unidentified compatriot were found shot to death in an unfrequented lane in Queens Friday morning. Mrs. Kovtoun said the other man "looked like" one who came here about a month ago and had spent most of his time with her husband.

Undercover detectives began making discreet inquiries among Communist organizations on the theory that the Russians, first believed to have been racketeers, had been assassinated in revenge for their anti-Soviet activities in the Ukraine. When Kovtoun left home Thursday night to attend a secret czarist meeting, Mrs. Kovtoun said, he had with him $200 borrowed on an insurance policy and had mentioned he expected to receive $3,000 some time this month from a source he did not disclose.

CHACO NEGOTIATION SEEMS DEADLOCKED

Bolivia Cables Stimson of Wish Not to Participate in "New Pretenses."

La Paz, Bolivia, July 24 (U.P.).—Efforts to settle the latest outbreak between Paraguay and Bolivia over possession of the Chaco territory apparently reached a deadlock today when the foreign office cabled U. S. Secretary of State Stimson that Bolivia was tired of Paraguayan aggressions and does not wish to participate in "new pretenses."

Bolivia's delegates to the nonaggression pact conference in Washington, the foreign office said, were informed July 20 that they can not continue conversations without lowering the dignity of the country. Paraguay Saturday announced its willingness to submit the latest developments in the Chaco to the Washington conference for investigation.

La Paz was quiet today although an unconfirmed report was circulated that a new battle had occurred between Bolivian and Paraguayan forces in the Chaco. The announcement that Argentina would maintain a neutral attitude in the dispute and that Argentina's military mission in Paraguay in event of open warfare was received with great enthusiasm here. Large crowds in front of newspaper bulletin boards greeted the report with cries of "Viva Argentine."

Asuncion, Paraguay, July 24 (U.P.). Certain army reserves have been ordered to report for duty within the last twelve hours, the war ministry announced today. The ministry explained that no militant operations were planned in the Chaco territory against Bolivia, but that the reserves would be held in readiness to reinforce the republic's 3,000-man army in event of hostilities. Rumors of a general mobilization were emphatically denied.

2 Legionnaires Drowned And 3 Others Missing

Eureka, Calif., July 24 (U.P.).—Two American Legion members were drowned and three others were missing tonight when a boat filled with picknickers capsized off Camp Weeli at the mouth of the Eel River.

Rescue workers attempted to revive ten other legionnaires at the camp after recovering the two bodies from the ocean. Inhalators and lifesaving equipment was rushed to the site, 40 miles from Eureka. Reports indicated that some of the ten who were rescued might not be saved by resuscitation.

Libby Holman in Hiding From Morbidly Curious

Cincinnati, July 24, (A.P.).—Libby Holman, widow of the slain Smith Reynolds, tobacco heir, has gone into seclusion "from the morbidly curious," her father said today in a statement bitterly flaying the "self-seeking motives" of North Carolina authorities.

His statement came as a denial to insistent reports that the former favorite had disappeared, but gave no hint that the girl was still at the home of a sister in Wyoming, a suburb. Holman said that he would produce his daughter any time her presence was desired by authorities.

HURT AIRMAN TELLS OF JUNGLE TERRORS

Was Semiconscious During 18 Days of Crawlnig and Avoiding Reptiles.

Mexico City, July 24 (A.P.).—The Medaryville, Ind., flier, Clarence L. McElroy, who was desperately injured in a plane crash in the jungles of Oaxaca State on June 27, today told for the first time the story of his eighteen days' terror before he was rescued.

Semiparalyzed from a blow on the head, covered with insect bites and still very weak, McElroy was brought here aboard the Pan-American International plane from San Geronimo.

The flier was met by his brother, Richard McElroy, and Joseph E. Ryden, of Medaryville. He was attended by Dr. A. R. Goodman, who said his condition was satisfactory, but it would be some time before he could recover the use of one leg.

The flier said his subconscious mind forced him on toward safety in the jungle while he was semidelirious, and he finally sighted four calves tethered to trees and waited for somebody to come get them.

Crashed on Mountain.

Here is his story:

"We were flying southward en route to Honduras when we ran into a furious tropical storm. There was no visibility and I tried to find a spot to land. Suddenly the plane crashed into a mountainside.

"That was at 10 a. m. I was knocked out and recovered consciousness in a rainstorm at 3 p. m., noting that the plane was a complete washout. My leg and head pained severely and I was too weak to crawl out of the wreck.

"I can't remember much of those first three days. Everything was hazy. I could see that my companion, Roy Gordon, of Tegucigalpa, Honduras, was dead, but I was too weak to move.

"Three days later I had recovered some strength. I tried to cover Gordon's body and then started crawling up the mountain to get my bearings.

Dodged Many Snakes.

"It was almost impossible to make headway in the jungle. My pains increased. I got water from a small mountain stream and caught a few crabs and ate them raw.

"At night I could see the lights of San Geronimo, but made very slow progress, probably not more than 3 miles from the ship in fourteen days' crawling. I was very weak and somewhat delirious.

"I would crawl a while, then pick bugs and insects a while and dodge many snakes. I saw no wild animals.

"I nearly gave up several times, but it is hard to die as long as you might have a chance. Even in my clouded mind the urge to live survived. I was desperate many times in the jungle, almost sure I would die, but I could not give up.

Indian Boy is Rescuer.

"July 13 was my lucky day, for that evening I found a herd of cows beside a stream, but what gave me hope was the sight of four calves tied to trees. I knew somebody eventually would come to untie those calves, so I stopped right there. I was too weak even to try to milk a cow.

"The next morning an Indian boy came. He was Gerardo Enriquez and I motioned that I wanted some food. He milked a cow and gave me some milk and some cheese he had. By signs I told him of my predicament and he understood. He built a small lean-to to protect me and left for help.

"That boy did a marvelous job. He covered the 20 miles to San Geronimo four times in a single day, getting help and getting me out. I am going to reward him handsomely."

As soon as Dr. Goodman gives the word, McElroy intends to start for Indiana.

FLANDIN ADVOCATES ABOLITION OF TARIFF

problems, I trust it will associate itself with this work which is indispensable for reestablishment of the world's business."

Senator Borah's proposal, the Nationalist Journal Des Debats, said today, is of primary importance, especially as the senator heretofore has been among the staunchest opponents of debt revision.

His change of front, the editorial said, probably was impelled by an increasing opinion in the United States that the debts burden is an important factor in prolonging the economic depression. Many Americans, said the newspaper, have come to believe that sacrifice of the debts would be preferable to continued business depression.

La Liberte put the Borah statement on the front page with a blistering editorial characterizing it as another threat to France.

"The man who is more important even than the President in directing American foreign policy in the name of the Senate now asserts brutally that debts and disarmament are linked," said the editorial, "and that military and financial problems should be settled by a new conference under Washington's orders. Is France eager to put her neck under the knife of the guillotine?"

In an adjacent column the paper printed a coupon and a declaration headed: "Our Debt Referendum."

"French taxpayers," it read, "do you want to pay a new tax to reimburse France's debt to England and the United States, who did us out of our claim on Germany?"

The reader was asked to vote on that question in the paper's referendum.

An editorial note explaining the new Borah proposal said: "Now, Mr. Borah proposes a new conference which would disarm us and fleece us."

AIR FIELD OF BRAZIL REBELS IS BOMBED

Rio Announces Suppression of Revolt in State of Rio Grande do Sul.

Rio de Janeiro, July 24 (U.P.).—Ten Federal airplanes flew over Sao Paulo, rebel headquarters, today and bombarded the Camp de Marte aviation field, the correspondent at the front for the newspaper Abatalha reports. The planes also dropped bombs on Taubate, a small city about 50 miles north of Sao Paulo on the Rio de Janeiro-Sao Paulo Railroad.

The government, it was announced at the war ministry, has purchased fifteen Waco planes, ten of them military machines and five for air mail, in New York. Another contract for fifteen Waco combat planes, it was understood, is to be signed as soon as financial arrangements are completed.

A revolt in the hitherto loyal state of Rio Grande do Sul was quelled, the government reported, when former Deputy Luzardo, of the municipality of Vacaraia, surrendered to the loyalists.

Advices from Sao Paulo said Col. Salgado, commander of military police, was killed by the explosion of a shell. The advices were not officially confirmed, but reported that Gen. Bertholdo Klinger was seriously wounded in the same explosion.

Montevideo, Uruguay, July 24 (U.P.).—An acute situation has arisen in the powerful state of Rio Grande do Sul with serious dissension threatening the support of Provisional President Getulio Vargas, advices from the Brazilian frontier reported today. Francisco Flores da Cunha, the advices said, has been appointed minister of interior for the state in an effort to control the rebellious factions.

Bacardi Rum Maker Dies.

Santiago, Cuba, July 24 (A.P.).—Facundo Bacardi, vice president of the company which makes the famous Bacardi rum, died in a hospital early today of a bullet wound accidentally inflicted a week ago. He was 40 years old. In a cafe last week he took a policeman's revolver from its holster, to examine it. The gun was accidentally discharged as he replaced it, and the bullet entered his abdomen, lodging in the spine.

Workers Protest In Mexico City.

Mexico City, July 24 (A.P.).—Six thousand workers carefully supervised by 2,000 policemen marched through the main streets of Mexico City today in a demonstration of protest against the recent verdict against striking street car workers. No disorders were reported.

Doctor to Visit Mrs. De Calles.

Mexico City, July 24 (A.P.).—The newspaper Excelsior tonight said it had learned that Dr. Harvey Cushing, of Boston, who recently performed a delicate operation on Mrs. Leonor Llorente de Calles, would shortly visit Mexico as the guest of Gen. Plutarco Calles, former President of Mexico.

Cuban Bomb Kills One.

Havana, Cuba, July 24 (A.P.).—A police captain was killed and three other policemen were seriously injured in the explosion of an infernal machine in a residence they were searching tonight. They had been called by the owner, who said he feared explosives had been placed in his home.

Ibanez Leaves Santiago.

Santiago, Chile, July 24 (U.P.).—Gen. Carlos Ibanez, virtual dictator of Chile for three years, is returning to exile on mule back. The former president and his wife left by train today for Valdivia, southern Chile, where they will hire mules and cross the snow-covered Andes Mountains into Argentina by way of Bariloche.

Search for Plane Abandoned.

Las Condes, Chile, July 24 (U.P.).—Search for the Pan-American Grace Airways Liner San Jose, missing with six passengers and a crew of three since July 16, was abandoned by a relief expedition of twelve miners who returned here today after exploring the winterbound Andes Mountains as far east as Los Bronces. The miners reported not the slightest trace of the plane.

Island Refuge Is Urged For President's Peace

Silver Bay, N. Y., July 24 (U.P.).—A suggestion that the President of the United States live for three months of each year on an isolated island where he would be able to concentrate on national problems free from the "ever besieging army of office seekers and other self seeking interests" was made today by Dr. Samuel Trexler, president of the United Lutheran Synod of New York.

SEVEN ARE WOUNDED IN EVARTS OUTBREAK

Three Volleys of Shots Are Fired Into Restaurant; Motive Unknown.

Evarts, Ky., July 24 (A.P.).—Seven persons were wounded, three of them seriously, in an outbreak here late last night for which officers today could advance no motive.

The wounded are: Dillard Middleton, 28, a deputy constable, shot through the hips; Millard Slusher, 25, wounded in the right arm, side and back; Baxter Troglen, 20, shot in the back; John Jody, 35, Lawrence Crider, 20, Lester McNab, 16, and Jean Turner, 16, flesh wounds.

The shooting occurred as fifteen persons gathered in the restaurant of Asa Cusick, former police chief under indictment in connection with a labor fight in which four men were slain last year. Three volleys of shots were fired through the glass front of the restaurant, witnesses said, by a man who cruised past the building three times, emptying a pistol each time. The name of the man suspected was given to authorities.

Slusher entered the restaurant as the first volley was fired. He fell to the floor and pandemonium followed. Middleton was found later in an automobile, which had run off the road near Draper, about 1 mile from here. A bullet had passed through the door of the car and struck him.

Occupants of the restaurant were at a loss to explain how Middleton was wounded. They said he was not in the restaurant when the shots were fired.

Middleton, Troglen and Slusher were treated in hospitals and the others were taken to their homes. None of them could give a reason for the shooting.

While officers were investigating the shooting, two shots were fired from a passing automobile this morning at Patrolman Anse Bowling. Neither shot struck the officer and the occupants of the automobile escaped before he could return the fire.

Piccard to Start Today To Prepare New Flight

Brussels, Belgium, July 24 (U.P.).—Prof. August Piccard, famous scientist of the stratosphere, will depart for Zurich tomorrow to prepare for his second balloon ascension into the thin, outer layer of atmosphere around the globe.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE PRESIDENT IS NOTIFIED.

("President Hoover will be notified of his renomination in August."—News item.)

Committee.

GOOD morning, Mister President,
And how are you today?
We hope that you are feeling well—
If so, hip, hip, hooray!

* * * * *

The President.

Good morning, boys; good morning all,
I'm feeling very fair,
It's good for me to know there are
Some folks who really care.

* * * * *

Committee.

We're happy you are feeling well
And looking so correct,
But something else has brought us here
As you perhaps suspect.

* * * * *

The President.

I know full well when people come
And ask me how I am
That in nine cases out of ten
They do not give a ——!

So let's dismiss formalities
As quickly as we can;
Disclose your mission speedily,
For I'm a busy man.

* * * * *

Committee.

We come, oh Mister President,
With news that's very great,
But wonder if you want it hot
Or would prefer to wait.

* * * * *

The President.

I can't imagine what it is,
But don't, I prithee, hedge;
I can not stand uncertainty—
It gets me all on edge.

* * * * *

Committee.

OH, Herbert, we appreciate
How things like this distress,
But you've some notion why we're here,
And, if not, can't you guess?

* * * * *

The President.

At guessing I have been a flop
(You know I have—and how!)
I can not bear this great suspense—
Your news I must have NOW!

* * * * *

The Committee.

You're certain, Mister President,
So confident and wise,
That you are in condition to Withstand a great surprise?

* * * * *

The President.

Surprises? Hah! Don't make me laugh!
I'm telling you, oh brother,
The last four years for me have been
Just one upon another.

* * * * *

The Committee.

Then brace yourself and take a good
Deep breath, for here we go;
Here is the substance of the news
We think you ought to know—

* * * * *

The President.

(In the greatest impatience.)
Come! Come! I can not stand suspense!
My curiosity's intense.

* * * * *

The Committee.

Then, since you say you must know ALL—
YOU'RE NAMED TO RUN AGAIN THIS FALL-LL-LL!

* * * * *

The President.

(In complete astonishment.)
Renamed by the G. O. P. * * *
Who? * * * Me!

* * * * *

(Here Mr. Hoover, overcome by surprise, staggers back and collapses into the arms of twelve secretaries, two under par.)

* * * * *

The Committee.

(Withdrawing mournfully.)
We should have had more sense than this
And left him to surmises;
In times like these a President
Can not stand BIG SURPRISES!

OH, YES, YES.

GENE TUNNEY will take the stump for Gov. Roosevelt. Tunney? Tunney? Oh, yes, the forgotten man.

Add similes: As camera shy as a girl bather in one of those swimming tournaments.

CAN THIS BE TRUE?

This department has received a most serious charge against the administration at Washington. It is nothing less than an allegation that those "Men Working" signs so frequently encountered on highways are Hoover campaign propaganda.

Thomas Assails Parties on Peace

Socialist Says Democratic and G.O.P. Platforms Lack Adequate Program.

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Norman Thomas, Socialist party candidate for President, assailed what he termed "the general absence of any adequate program for peace" in either the Republican or Democratic platforms in an address tonight.

"At no point has President Hoover served us worse," he declared, "than by failing even to try to educate us and lead us in a program for peace. When he has been right he has been right too late, or too feebly to capture the imagination of peoples who must be roused to wage peace as they wage war.

"So far as Roosevelt's position is known, it is worse. His repudiation of the League of Nations, which he supported enthusiastically in 1920, was dictated not by conscience but ambition speaking through the promptings of William Randolph Hearst."

Thomas reviewed Socialist party proposals which he said would further amity. They included recognition of Soviet Russia, cancellation of war debts and abolition of conscription, military training camps and the R. O. T. C.

2 May Lose Jobs Over Federal Tax

City Official Refused to Pay at Ball Game; Fires Taker; Asked to Quit.

Minneapolis, July 24 (A.P.).—You can get a lot of things for 10 cents nowadays—including trouble, Edward J. Lee, member of the municipal civil service commission, will testify.

He has been asked to resign by the city council because he had removed from the city pay roll John W. Callahan, a gatekeeper at the municipal auditorium, who is also a ticket taker at the local American Association baseball park.

Lee became angry when Callahan refused him entry to the ball park on a pass unless Lee paid the new 10-cent Federal tax.

Lee refused to resign and a new council move has been started to rescind confirmation of his appointment. Another motion has been prepared asking the city attorney to restrain Lee from acting in an official capacity.

Today it was annnounced the county grand jury will investigate the incident.

German Completes Test On New Torpedo Rocket

Osnabrueck, Germany, July 24 (U. P.).—A successful secret test of a new torpedo-like rocket was conducted today at Duemmer Lake. Invented by the Hanover engineer, Reinhold Tilling, the rocket is about 8 feet long and equipped with wings about 10 feet wide. The rocket shot into the air and the wings unfolded at an altitude of more than 5,000 feet, permitting the rocket to glide to earth.

The speed of the rocket and the distance covered in the experiment were not disclosed, but Tiling was said to be ready for a public demonstration soon.

Indicted Lawyer Caught After 4 Months' Search

Detroit, July 24 (A.P.).—Fugitive for nearly four months under an indictment charging subornation of perjury, Asher L. Cornelius, attorney and author of several law textbooks, was arrested today as he crouched in the mud under the porch of a house where, police said, he had been hiding.

The indictment resulted from an investigation which, officials said, disclosed a plot to provide spurious claimants to estates which had reverted to the State primary school fund because there were no heirs. Investigators said $4,000 had been secured by the plan here and that plans were on foot to extend operations to other cities.

Secretly Warned Guards Seize Revolver in Cell

Baltimore, July 24 (A.P.).—Guards at the Maryland State Penitentiary, acting on a warning received through secret channels, have taken a revolver from the cell of William Niemoth, Chicago public enemy, high officials said today.

Niemoth, friend of James "Fur" Sammons, recently released from Joliet (Ill.) Penitentiary and now sought by Chicago police, is serving a ten-year sentence for participation in the $47,000 Sonneborn pay roll robbery in 1926.

MANY STARS ATTEND ZIEGFELD'S FUNERAL

Simple but Beautiful Rites Held as Widow Declines Public Service.

Los Angeles, July 24 (A.P.).—Funeral rites intended to be of the simplest nature but which partook, nevertheless of the beauty he knew in life, were held here today for the master of theatrical spectacles, Florenz Ziegfeld.

In the quest for quiet and privacy, not more than one hundred close friends were informed by telephone or the place of the services, but they were nearly all notables of stage and screen. They surrounded the undertaking establishment with the glitter of their big motors, and their floral tributes, costing an estimated $25,000, banked the little chapel.

The short Episcopal funeral service was read, and a single voice arose, singing the old spiritual, "Going Home," in farewell to the man whose public funeral would have filled the largest cathedral, whose requiem might have been sung by the world's most famous voices.

Public Funeral Refused.

The body, now at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, will be taken to New York by the widow, Billie Burke, when she completes a motion picture here. Will Rogers, humorist and actor, an old friend to whom the widow turned in her grief, and who arranged the funeral, said Mayor Walker of New York telephoned a request early today that the body be returned as soon as possible to the scene of the Ziegfeld triumphs, so that the city itself might conduct a public funeral. Mrs. Ziegfeld refused, Rogers said, and insisted that privacy continue.

The services were held at noon. A handful of persons stood about the mortuary entrance and watched the arrival of the mourners—John Barrymore, Marion Davies, Eddie Cantor, Harold Lloyd, Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, William Randolph Hearst, Mr. and Mrs. John Boles and others of equal fame.

Tribute Paid by Pastor.

Billie Burke walked steadily from her car on the arm of Will Rogers, with 15-year-old Patricia Ziegfeld at their side. The widow was dry-eyed when she entered, but she was weeping when she left, and so were Rogers and Patricia.

Contrary to Episcopal custom, the minister, the Rev. Franklin L. Gibson, of St. Athanasius Episcopal Church, spoke informally after he had read the service.

"Mr. Ziegfeld, above everything else, was a lover of beauty," he said. "In the finest and noblest sense of the word he was a true artist. Today there seems to be no one qualified to take his place, no one to carry on his splendid work. The curtain has fallen for the last time and Florenz Ziegfeld has gone to his well-earned rest."

Ziegfeld went to a New Mexico desert sanitarium some time ago to recuperate from pneumonia. His condition grew worse, and he was brought to Hollywood a week ago. It was believed during the week that he was progressing, but he died Friday night.

Chicago, July 24 (U.P.).—Physicians abandoned hope tonight for the life of Mrs. Rosalie Ziegfeld, 84-year-old mother of the late producer, who has been in a coma, unaware of her son's death.

Procter & Gamble Profit For Year Is $9,132,545

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Procter & Gamble today reported earnings for the year ended June 30 of $18,043,034 after all reserves and charges for depreciation and advertising had been deducted, but before certain adjustments in inventory values.

Net profit was reported at $9,132,545. Net income for the preceding year was $22,650,818. The volume of sales measured in dollars was 25 per cent less than last year, but tonnage was off only 8 per cent. Col. William Cooper Procter, chairman of the board, said in a message to stockholders that "our business is on a sound operating basis."

Illinois Miners Strike Parley Held Progressing

Springfield, Ill., July 24 (A.P.).—"Progress" was reported today at a conference between representatives of the Illinois Coal Operators Association and Illinois District with miners' unions involved in wage scale difficulties.

TEXAS DEMOCRATS DEMAND REFERENDUM ON PROHIBITION

seat of Representative Guinn Williams, who did not seek reelection.

Attorney General James V. Allred apparently had won the nomination for a second term. He led Clem Calhoun, of Amarillo, his principal opponent, by more than two to one.

Repetition of 1930 Race.

This primary seemed fair to be a repetition of the 1930 Democratic first primary, when Mrs. Ferguson led a field of eleven candidates. She received almost 72,000 votes more than Sterling, her nearest opponent. There were 833,000 votes. In the run-off Mrs. Ferguson lost to Sterling by 90,000 votes out of 857,000 votes counted.

The Fergusons have been candidates before the Texas electorate eight times since 1914, when Ferguson, then a small-town banker and farmer unknown in politics, decided to seek the governorship.

Ferguson was impeached in his second term on charges of misconduct in office, a loan of $156,000 from Texas brewers figuring in the trial.

In the campaign just closed the Fergusons attacked the Sterling administration as "inefficient and costly." Tax reductions and economy were promised by both Sterling and the Fergusons.

Opposing interpretations of the vote by Texas Democrats for resubmission of the prohibition question came from wet and dry leaders today.

Dry Issue Vote Disputed.

"Texas," said Thomas B. Love, "remains overwhelmingly dry."

Love, former State senator, was a prohibitionist leader of the Democratic bolt to Herbert Hoover in 1928.

Said Mrs. Florence N. Rodgers, State chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform:

"The vote showed that prohibitionists have vastly overestimated dry sentiment in the State and have put out a mass of erroneous information to the public."

Love pointed out that, "according to the 4 o'clock Sunday totals, out of 446,640 votes cast, 145,000 voted for submission, or just 30 per cent of the total vote counted."

"These figures," he said, "make it certain more than 500,000 majority of the Democrats who voted in yesterday's primary election either voted against submission or refused to vote for it."

Mrs. Rodgers, citing a lead of approximately 100,000 votes in favor of a test, said "so far the vote indicates about 2½ times as many voters favor submission as oppose it."

Mrs. Rodgers was a candidate for representative from the Fifth District and was in third place on incomplete returns.

Barred Negroes Protest.

Houston, Tex., July 24 (A.P.).—Negro voters tonight sought the arrest of Harris County Democratic primary election judges for refusing them the right to vote yesterday.

A Negro lawyer presented U. S. Commissioner Winston McMahon names of officials he said refused Negroes admittance to the polls and asked that they be charged with violation of the Federal code governing suffrage rights.

"I told the Negro lawyer to take the matter up with the district attorney's office tomorrow," Commissioner McMahon said.

Several hundred Negroes attempted to vote. In most instances election judges, backed up by policemen stationed at the polls to prevent disorder, refused them admission.

Texarkana, Tex., July 24 (A.P.).—Senator Morris Sheppard, coauthor of the eighteenth amendment, reserved comment tonight on the Texas Democratic primary vote for a proposal to resubmit the prohibition question.

"When the returns are completely tabulated," he added, "I will have something to say."

Memorial Planned To Genius of Stage

Mayor Walker Proposes Permanent Tribute to Florenz Ziegfeld.

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker today began preparations to establish a permanent memorial to Florenz Ziegfeld.

"Florenz Ziegfeld well deserved the honor of official recognition of his contribution to the stage and the city," the mayor told A. C. Blumenthal, who is in charge of Ziegfeld's affairs.

Blumenthal telephoned Mayor Walker's statement to Billie Burke, the showman's widow, and said she felt "deeply appreciative and wholly in sympathy" with the plan.

At the same time Blumenthal disclosed he and Ziegfeld last May were considering the production of a final follies "which would be a revue of all Ziegfeld revues with the most famous stars available from the follies of the past 25 years." Blumenthal said he felt now that he should carry out the plan.

FISHBURNE MAY RUN FOR TUCKER'S SEAT

Ferguson and Robertson Also Are Mentioned as Possible Candidates.

(Associated Press.)

The death of Representative Henry St. George Tucker, of Lexington, may reinstate in the congressional scene Representative John W. Fishburne, of Charlottesville, whose district was amalgamated with Tucker's by this year's General Assembly.

Others who were mentioned in talk here yesterday as possible seekers of the Democratic nomination for the office were State Senator Samuel Ferguson, of Appomattox, and Maj. A. Willis Robertson, of Lexington, chairman of the State game and inland fisheries commission.

Tucker, unopposed within the Democratic party, already had been declared the nominee. He announced his intention to seek the nomination soon after the redistricting bill was pushed through the General Assembly in one day.

Some days later, Fishburne said he would not run. He gave as his reason a desire to reestablish a law practice for the benefit of his son, now nearing completion of scholastic legal training.

There were many, however, who saw Fishburne's voluntary withdrawal as deference to the 79-year-old Lexington member of Congress, who was serving his tenth term, and predicted Fishburne might again reenter the political field. This was Fishburne's first session in Congress.

Ferguson was one of the leaders in the fight to preserve the old Tenth District, represented by Tucker, in the General Assembly redistricting fight. The fight was lost to the extent that the major part of the district was placed in the Seventh, represented by Fishburne, and three counties in the Sixth, represented by Woodrum, of Roanoke, but Ferguson was able to keep Appomattox from being transferred to the Fourth, represented by Drewry, of Petersburg.

Robertson is one of the younger leaders of the Democratic party in the Shenandoah Valley.

water. Once he nearly collided with the Eiffel Tower, and on another occasion Paris firemen hauled him down from the side of a building. Again he was making a forced landing when he saved himself by shouting to some boys to run against the wind with his guy ropes.

The "gondolas" of his creations were not the safest nor most comfortable that could have been devised. But to Santos-Dumont the airship was the thing—his personal comfort came last. On No. 4, for instance, he rode on a bicycle saddle. His No. 6 brought him his greatest success. In 1901 he piloted this airship around the Eiffel Tower and back—a distance of 7 miles—in less than half an hour, winning the 100,000-franc Deutsch prize.

FUNERAL OF TUCKER WILL BE HELD TODAY

Veteran Virginia Member of House to Be Honored by Congress Colleagues.

Lexington, Va., July 24 (A.P.).—Henry St. George Tucker, whose death yesterday removed from the National Congress Virginia's veteran representative, will be buried in Lexington tomorrow.

Special committees from House and Senate, appointed soon after news of his death was received, will gather here to pay tribute to their former colleague and friend.

The death of the 79-year-old member, who for many years had represented the Tenth Virginia District in the House, came after a critical illness of ten days, in which little hope was held for his recovery.

Influenza Led to Death.

Early in the last session of Congress, Mr. Tucker was stricken with a severe attack of influenza, from which he never fully recovered. He retired to his Lexington home, Col Alto and here, surrounded by his sons and daughters, died early last night.

Funeral services will be held at 5 o'clock, with Dr. James J. Murray, pastor of the Lexington Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Tucker was a member, presiding. Bishop Henry St. George Tucker, of Richmond, a cousin of the representative, will assist. Burial will take place in the family plot here.

Active pallbearers will be Stuart Moore, Wilcox Brown, John L. Campbell, jr., M. W. Paxton, jr., Dr. Reid White, Robert Hutcheson, Randolph A. Shields and N. Beverley Tucker, jr., all of Lexington.

Honorary Pallbearers.

Honorary pallbearers will be Gov. John Garland Pollard, Attorney General John R. Saunders, Senator Carter Glass, Representatives S. Otis Bland, Menalcus Lankford, A. J. Montague, P. H. Drury, Thomas G. Burch, C. A. Woodrum, John W. Fishburne, Howard W. Smith and John W. Flannagan, jr.; Newton D. Baker, John W. Davis, Henry W. Holt, Louis S. Eppes, George W. Browning, George C. Peery, Joseph A. Glasgow, Dr. George Calver, Joseph J. Sinnott, Samuel L. Ferguson, L. W. H. Peyton, Herbert J. Taylor, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, Dr. Francis P. Gaines, Col. (Associated Press.)

Vice President Curtis yesterday named a committee of seven senators, headed by Glass, of Virginia, to attend the funeral today at Lexington, Va., of Representative Henry St. George Tucker.

Those named were Hull, Tennessee; Harrison, Mississippi; Neely, West Virginia, and Connally, Texas, Democrats; and Borah, Idaho, and Goldsborough, Maryland, Republicans.

CHICAGO EXCHANGE TO FIGHT U. S. BAN

would be forced to increase their handling charges.

There would be no rules for sale or purchase, unscrupulous buyers could take advantage of the situation, shady practices would go unpunished, and the resultant chaos in the grain trade would spread to other business, Carey predicted.

Carey admitted the decision indicated that the Federal Farm Board had won the first round of the bitter battle waged against it by the board of trade. The commission ordered the board to stop trading in futures for 60 days because it had refused to admit the Farmers National Grain Corporation to the board's clearing house.

The Farmers National said the board rules violated the grain futures act, and intimated they were established merely to keep the Farm Board's associate from using the facilities of the exchange. The commission, composed of three members of President Hoover's Cabinet, agreed with the Farmers National.

Annual Fees of $100,000.

"The Farmers National always has contended that the board of trade's refusal to allow it clearing corporation privileges has been a hardship," George S. Milner said. "If clearing house privileges are granted to the Farmers National, it will be able to compete on an even basis with other cooperatives."

The Farmers National, one of the two Farm Board grain corporations, has been forced since its establishment to clear its grain traders through brokers with memberships in the clearing house, paying annual fees estimated at about $100,000.

The board of trade does a business so vast that its volume is difficult to comprehend. Grain future sales last year, when the trading was light, amounted to 11,480,178,000 bushels. In 1925, a normal year, total sales were 26,895,040,000 bushels.

This tremendous flow of grain makes Chicago by far the largest grain center in the world. The trade is carried on in a vaulted chamber taking up most of three floors in a 42-story skyscraper at the end of La Salle street.

Protest Due From Missouri.

Kansas City, July 24 (A.P.).—W. B. Lincoln, president of the Kansas City Board of Trade, said tonight the Federal closing order issued against the Chicago Board of Trade would be protested by grain men, milling representatives and banks of this section.

"Responsibility for such a drastic move should be too great for any one man or group of men to assume," Lincoln said.

"Markets have already become imperiled by Farm Board policies and by the recent imposition of a heavy tax on commodity trades which reflect injury back on the farmer. The farmers in the Southwest are now getting little more than 20 cents a bushel for their wheat on the farm.

"With the movement of the new winter wheat crop at hand, the spring wheat movement just starting with a heavy crop, the Secretary of Agriculture might well stop and consider the effect on the producer."

Sugar and Railroad Magnate Dies at 62

Col. J. M. Tarafa, Cuban Patriot, Succumbs in New York.

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Col. Jose Miguel Tarafa, 62, Cuban sugar and railroad magnate and philanthropist, died suddenly in his apartment at the Carlton House here last night of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Tarafa, who arrived here from Havana ten days ago to engage in a series of sugar conferences, was stricken while he lay reading a book. His body was found shortly afterward by his son, Dr. Jose Miguel Tarafa, jr. Arrangements were being made to return the body to Havana.

Jose Tarafa was an outstanding figure in Cuban finance, industry and society. Born at Matanzas in 1869, he was educated here and in the United States preparatory to entering the sugar business. He gave up his business in 1895 to fight in Cuba's war for independence, attaining the rank of colonel. Thereafter he amassed great wealth as a sugar planter and interested himself also in other fields. He built the railroad between Moron and Jaruco, became president of the Northern Railroad and controlled sugar properties whose combined capacity was 600,000 sacks a year.

Mine Cave-In Kills Father and 2 Sons

Bodies of Trio Found After They Failed to Return; Went to Dig Coal.

Uniontown, Pa., July 24 (A.P.).—In the flickering light of pit lamps, stumbling rescuers today recovered the bodies of a man and two small boys, buried in a fall of tons of slate in Nellie Mine.

Albert Shearer, 35, of Vanderbilt, went into the abandoned mine yesterday with his sons, James, 8, and Charles, 10, to dig coal. Shearer was out of a job.

When they failed to return in the evening Mrs. Shearer notified a relative. The alarm spread throughout the mining colony at dark and rescuers carried pit lamps into the mine.

Three hundred feet from the opening they came upon tons of slate and rock and saw the bodies buried beneath the fall.

Physicians said Shearer and James probably had died within a short time after the cave-in. Charles had been dead but a few minutes.

PAGEANT PRESENTED AT CAMP GOOD WILL

Evolution of Bathing Suit Is Depicted by Mothers and Children.

The evolution and history of the bathing suit was depicted yesterday in a water sport pageant presented by the 186 mothers and children vacationing at Camp Good Will in Rock Creek Park.

The pageant included various floats and swimming demonstrations under the direction of Miss Frances Stabler and Harry English. The evolution of the bathing suit was depicted through the medium of a playlet by the mothers and children. Swimming strokes learned during the two weeks of instruction were demonstrated.

Under the sponsorship of the Associated Charities, mothers and children of Washington are privileged to spend two weeks at the camp. Instruction in swimming, hiking, story telling, handcraft instruction, chorus singing and intervals for free play make up the camper's day.

At Camp Pleasant, Blue Plains, D. C., 150 colored mothers and children are spending a two weeks' vacation in similar manner. Play and rest periods are interspersed with special instruction in music, singing, practical art and color work, dramatic action and story telling.

Humanist Movement To Centralize Activities

Minneapolis, Minn., July 24 (A.P.).—Creation of an international association to centralize activities of the humanist movement in religion was announced here tonight by John H. Dietrich, pastor of the First Unitarian Society. Headquarters of the organization, the humanist extension bureau, will open here with control vested in an advisory committee, which will have general supervision.

"The bureau should not be construed as an effort to establish a new religion or cult," explained Howard G. Kraus, director. "Rather it is a means of extending to the present church structure the cooperation of humanist groups. We hope to stress the readjustment of religion to modern civilization and science."

Dr. Hibben Will Direct Cleaner Films Crusade

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—John Grier Hibben, who retired recently as president of Princeton University, will direct a campaign for wholesome motion pictures when he returns from a European vacation this fall.

The Motion Picture Research Council announced tonight that Dr. Hibben had accepted the chairmanship of the council, which for several years has been promoting a scientific study of the influences of motion pictures on the health, attitudes and conduct of the country's youth.

Crown Prince Michael In Boy Scouts' Review

Bucharest, Roumania, July 24 (A.P.).—Crown Prince Michael marched in review with Boy Scouts from all parts of the nation today, while King Carol, the premier and cabinet ministers stood in the reviewing stand.

The nation-wide scout jamboree was at Camp Sibiu. Later the villagers of Saliste paraded in native costumes with 7,000 scouts.

Culbertson on Bridge

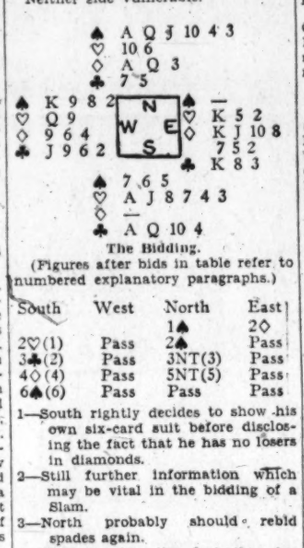
THE PRANKS OF DISTRIBUTION.

SOME players regard the making of the Grand Coup as the greatest achievement in the play of a hand at Bridge. While this play, which involves the trumping of good cards in one hand in order to shorten the trump length in the Declaring Hand to the same as that held by the opponent to the right, is extremely spectacular. It is actually much easier to plan than plays involving eliminations and squeezes. The position of adverse trump strength and the definite measure of that trump strength is known. Hence the Declarer, if he is to make his contract, must rely upon the coup alone, while hands of other types sometimes present alternative methods of play, either one of which may prove effective.

An interesting example of the perfect play of an overbid hand was given recently in a match game by Mr. Edward Hymes, jr., playing with Mr. Louis H. Watson. Mr. Hymes held the North hand pictured below:

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The Bidding.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
		1♠	2◇
2♡(1)	Pass	2♠	Pass
3♣(2)	Pass	3NT(3)	Pass
4◇(4)	Pass	5NT(5)	Pass
6♠(6)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South rightly decides to show his own six-card suit before disclosing the fact that he has no losers in diamonds.
2—Still further information which may be vital in the bidding of a Slam.
3—North probably should rebid spades again.
4—Now showing the fact that his hand contains no diamond losers.
5—Up to this time North has made nothing but minimum responses to South's strong bidding. Mr. Hymes reasons that by no other bid can he convey the picture of double stoppers in the diamond suit. Personally, I prefer a Rebid of the spades.
6—As a matter of course, although the knowledge of duplication of values in the diamond suit produces a slight element of uncertainty.

East, unwilling to lead toward the probable major tenace in diamonds in the Declaring Hand, chose as his Opening the club trey. The Queen was played from Dummy, and held the trick, and a small spade was led, West playing low, and North finessed. When East failed to follow, North had the assurance that West had held originally four spades, and as he had other losers in his hand, he could not utilize Dummy's three trumps for the purpose of leading through, unless he was able to establish a suit in Dummy upon which he might discard his losing diamonds. In order to do this a finesse in the heart suit was essential. Therefore, after winning the first round of trumps, Mr. Hymes led the heart 10. East did not cover and West won with the Queen, correctly returning his top diamond. This was won with the Ace, and a second round of hearts led, the Knave being finessed. This finesse was essential to the making of the contract.

When the finesse held, the success of the contract was assured. The Ace of hearts was laid down, and West was in difficulties. To ruff would be useless, and to discard equally futile. The club Ace was still an entry to the Dummy, and North, by most excellent play, fulfilled his contract.

While, as actually played, the true Grand Coup situation did not develop, North, by his correct appraisal of methods of play, had found the only road to assure him of success.

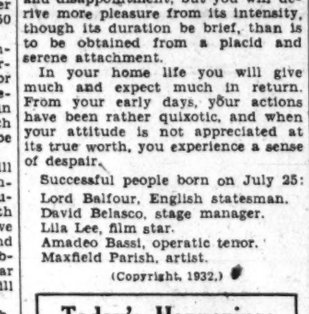
Today's Pointer.

A sound plan is essential to the success of the play at Contract Bridge. Before beginning the play of a hand the Declarer should review the bidding, study the Dummy and his own holding, and form a plan calculated to realize his contract. The plan, however, should be subject to change as need requires.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF July 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 9:50 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 7:10 p. m. to 9:05 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:50 a. m. and from 3:30 p. m. to 6 p. m.

The astrological aspects that influence July 25 are distinctly favorable for those engaged in literary or artistic pursuits, but they do not denote much chance of advancement in other lines. Inspiration will be much in evidence and intuition will be more effective than cold logic.

The child born on this July 25 will be full of vivacity and mischief without malice. It will never be a student of books, but will be gifted with a quick intelligence and receptive mind. Its emotions will be deep, and its affections lasting. It may probably never achieve any spectacular success. On the other hand, it will never be a "wash-out."

You, if born on July 25, are stubborn, without being obstinate. You, too, are often the victim of obsessions. Once you get an idea into your head, it is very difficult to dislodge it, even though in your logical moments you are forced to the conclusion that you are pursuing a "will-of-the-wisp." This, naturally, militates against your material success, and often lands you in difficulties.

You are a hard worker, and a conscientious one. Not a clock worker, you never postpone until tomorrow what can be done today. Orderly and neat, you must have everything "just so," if you are to do your best. Neither in the office nor in the home can you do anything amidst chaotic or disorderly surroundings.

Your affections, according to the signs, promise to be deeply involved. Your romance may cause you anguish and disappointment, but you will derive more pleasure from its intensity, though its duration be brief, than is to be obtained from a placid and serene attachment.

In your home life you will give much and expect much in return. From your early days, your actions have been rather quixotic, and when your attitude is not appreciated at its true worth, you experience a sense of despair.

Successful people born on July 25:
Lord Balfour, English statesman.
David Belasco, stage manager.
Lila Lee, film star.
Amadeo Bassi, operatic tenor.
Maxfield Parish, artist.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

REALLY new and fascinating cuts mark this charming evening dress. They are not difficult, either, yet carry an enormous amount of French cleverness in their conception.

The skirt has the cutest arrangement for its hem fullness. You'll note the clever bias lines that give it sleek slenderness through the hips and elegant height to the figure.

And it's so easily put together.

White crepe satin or rough crinkled crepe is extremely modish.

Embroidered organdie is youthfully smart.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

TRAVELING WITH BEAUTY.

TRAVELING light has become a very modern slogan. There are less pieces of luggage in evidence, per person at least, in fashionable circles. Women may take less clothes, hats, shoes and pretties with them for the week-end or fortnight, but beauty is one important detail that smart females never travel without.

It is really very simple to keep beauty with you whether you are running down to the shore for a day or spending the summer abroad. The beauty mart offers a great many varieties of thoroughly and completely equipped traveling cases and kits. They are grand for the woman who does not have to budget for beauty or anything else. But for the majority of us who do, there's joy in fitting up an inexpensive rubberized bag, or cretonne bag with rubber lining containing several pockets ready to receive your beauty aids.

Small Containers.

Unless you are off for a very distant destination, you can pack all your beauty belongings compactly and still travel light. Purchase your favorite preparations in the smallest size possible, in tubes if they are put up in tubes, or for real economy get large sizes (there's usually quite a saving in larger sizes) and refill into small jars and bottles. If you are to stop at one spot for several weeks, it is quite a simple matter to send the balance by mail. The rubber bags are a source of great comfort and convenience. On the train they can be carried on the arm, in a hotel room they can be hung on a hook in the bathroom and they are roomy and handy, too.

You'll want a cleansing cream and skin tonic, or one of the delightful cleansing lotions that serve both purposes. They are excellent for traveling. They are so cooling and refreshing and spell death to dust. Be sure to include some absorbent cotton and a small package of cleansing tissues, the soft, absorbent variety that saves linen towels and are so kind to the skin. Also take a little of your nourishing cream or muscle oil with you for use around the eyes only if your skin is oily, otherwise for use on entire face and neck. Speaking of eyes, it is wise to have a sun shade with you, and a bottle of your favorite eye lotion and eye cup or dropper. Your make-up items should include your usual set plus a slightly darker powder to be mixed with your own, should your skin turn tan and a rouge of the yellow-tan variety.

Of course, tooth and hair brushes should follow you everywhere, mirror and comb, too, a small clothes brush, and one of the compact manicuring sets, or assemble one yourself: cuticle oil, polish and remover, scissors, nail white in paste or pencil form, emory board and orange stick are the essentials.

Your dentifrice, mouthwash, deodorant or antiperspirant can doubtless be obtained in small packages. If you are partial to a certain brand of bath salts fill a paper envelope with a small quantity, and take your bath dusting or body powder with you in the most compact and convenient form. And a tip from a seasoned traveler: your favorite soap should travel with you, and if you are in doubt about the water condition at your destination have a water softener with you, too.

Checking back, I see I've forgotten a foundation preparation, the protective kind; a lotion for oily skin, cream for dry. I hope you won't forget it. By the way, it's a good plan to make a list of your beauty effects and check off one by one.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

BUYING COTTON FABRICS.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

Home sewing is quite the thing in a family economy program, and the woman or girl who can make her own cotton frocks may have plenty of them without feeling that she is spending more than she should. The new fabrics spread on the counters for us to choose from are unusually lovely this season. Our main difficulty will be resisting the temptation to stock up too heavily.

Here's what Ruth O'Brien, chief of the textile and clothing division of the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, has to say about the new summer fabrics:

"I went on a shopping trip the other day, especially to look for the new cottons. Our manufacturers have produced some beautiful fabrics this season. You know, in the last five or six years cotton materials have undergone a remarkable change. Now we have really good designs, lovely soft colors, and most interesting weaves.

"I liked especially the so-called two-tone cotton mesh fabrics. They are firm and strong as can be, and yet pliable and soft as other mesh and netted fabrics. And what's more, they come in dark dignified colors which make them just right for street or office wear. Formerly we could get only light-colored cotton materials with trivial designs, which seemed out of place in street cars, automobiles, offices and other public places. These new dark fabrics make well-tailored street outfits.

"Then there are materials with colonial designs that have come out to celebrate the Bicentennial. Many of them are copied from old prints and colonial fabrics. They will add a quaint and very pleasing touch to the summer wardrobe. I saw some of these in well-made lace voiles that are light and summery looking and just the thing for afternoon and party frocks.

"But as I looked over the counters, I had to admit that we still have some of the problems with us that we always had. I saw some of the same sleazy fabrics we used to find; some of the same loose weaves; the same poorly fastened yarns. And these were right alongside of excellently made fabrics—just where they would catch the unwary.

"By a well-made fabric I mean one firm enough to hold its shape, and with any fancy dots and figures woven in securely. Whenever the figures in a fabric are made with extra yarns, these yarns should not be too different in size from the other yarns in the piece, or the cloth will wear in holes very soon. The same thing happens if the yarns one way in a fabric are very much heavier than the yarns the other way; or if some of the yarns have heavy bunches on them at intervals. All these novelty effects add interest, but choose them carefully if you expect the cloth to wear.

"Be careful about crepes with long floats on the under side which produce a crinkled-up effect. They are pretty but those long yarns catch and pull and cause no end of trouble. When you pick up a piece of material try to see it as a piece of interlacing yarns, and read its character from these yarns and the way they are put together.

"To summarize: First, consider firmness of weave; second, good balance, that is, all the yarns near the same size; third, no yarns carried over so many others that they will catch and pull out easily; fourth, all woven-in figures so firmly fastened that they will stay in their places."

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Fashion novelties selected by Dah-ray. The little felt hat for fall, worn with the latest in collar and a brooch; another hat, of slight beret inspiration, with feather fancy perched atop the head. And the sleeved top that changes evening frocks into afternoon gowns.

Hollywood, Calif., July 24.—The brooch is one item of feminine adornment that Dame Fashion has rather neglected lately. One wondered why, speculated upon whether the holes left in the fabric of the gown by the pin were the reason for the disfavor of the brooch, and let it go at that. Some of us even had brooches that were beautiful enough to warrant it, made into bracelets or pendants.

But the fashion cycle is as inevitable as the sun's cycle, though often far more prolonged. And the Dame Fashion has condescended to cast a roving eye again at the brooch as an article of adornment.

So the big brooch, usually in brilliants, or brilliants and other precious or semiprecious stones, will be seen about, this autumn and winter. About everywhere, too. Though if you look closely, 'twill more often than not prove to be the same brooch—removed from the coat collar and pinned onto the belt, or removed from the shoulder and pinned onto the point of the decolletage.

As to stones—color plays a part in all jewelry for the coming season—by which I mean that not only brooches, but other jewelry as well, is being developed in coral, or lapis lazuli, or jade, or a smart combination of two of these. Brilliants more often than not nestle in the setting of the pieces, but not too obviously. Except when the entire piece is made of brilliants, of course.

In the jewelry made of color or lapis, jade or amethyst quartz, the solid rings made of a solid piece of the stone are the most popular. One wears a ring cut from the solid stone, and then perhaps a bracelet, massive in appearance, but not cut of the solid stone. Then either a brooch or a necklace completes the jewelry ensemble. And it is chosen for its color value to the outfit with which it is worn.

How about something diff'r'nt in house dresses? Yes, something colorful and becoming, whimsical and gay—something easy to wash and iron, and not too expensive to start with. Well, send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, and you will find directions for making a house dress that has all these requirements.

The house dress costs 20 or 25 cents, being made from four or five bandana handkerchiefs. And that is how you know that it is gay and clever, and becoming and easily laundered. And how easy to make—just a trip to the hemstitcher's, and scarcely any cutting or sewing to its making at all. Hurry!

• • • •

It's almost a game! Seeing how to make a top arrangement that has sleeves, to wear with a decollete dress, the dress with the top being suitable for "Sunday night" affairs, or afternoon affairs of the very formal type; the dress without the top being suitable for any more formal evening affair. I sketched one idea today, which showed a top to a black frock, made of crisp yellow, dull luster taffeta, banded in gold. This not only makes a less formal frock out of a formal one, but gives Miladi another outfit entirely, no?

And as to collars, the close to the throat and uncollared neckline sports an adorable little upstanding collar, fastened with a big brooch, sketched above. Demure—and certainly charming—effects like this! And the other selection to show you today is something new in hats—the hat that seems inspired from the coolie hat that perches flat on the head, or to the head, rather—though some say it is a modified beret. And look at the feather trimming!

Au revoir!

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WHEN MILK IS HARMFUL.

IN Oriental countries, and particularly in China and Japan, there are almost no cows. Nor are there any other milk-giving animals, at least in number commensurate with the human population. Chinese and Japanese babies are nourished on mother's milk until they are old enough to eat soups, meats and breads. When no supply of mother's milk is available the baby gets a milk made from soy beans. Older persons drink soy bean milk and eat a cheese made from it.

In this country it occasionally becomes necessary to stop the use of milk of any kind and from any source in feeding a given baby. One of the principal reasons for this is the development of tetter. When this appears in the hair it is apt to be called cradle cap; when on the face, eczema. The child has become sensitized to some ingredient in the food, and the one that comes immediately under suspicion is milk.

To change radically a baby's food is hazardous. Therefore, it is customary to first try coal-tar ointments as a means of cure. Experimenting with the milk portion of the diet is generally begun by substituting skim milk for whole milk, in the hope that the offending ingredient is the cream. Since cradle cap is especially apt to develop in hot weather, and the need of fats at that season is lessened, it may be that the baby will thrive for several months on a low fat diet. It may be advisable to give a moderate amount of fats from other sources—for instance, liver oils, meat fats, vegetable fats. They may be given in soups.

If the low fat diet fails and the eruption continues to be annoying, one may feed soy bean milk. In treating a number of cases of this skin trouble in babies, Drs. Levy and Finkelstein made use of a proprietary soy bean flour. This flour is partly dissolved and partly suspended in water and fed from a bottle just as though it were milk. The hole in the nipple needs to be slightly enlarged. They began with somewhat small quantities, say about two-thirds as much per day of the solution as would be used of a milk mixture. The solution they used was somewhat weak—about two-thirds the full strength as given in the directions. As soon as it was established that the baby could digest the soy bean milk, the strength of the mixture and the daily quantity given were brought up to the standard.

After a short period of observation sugar was added to the soy bean milk, cane sugar being preferred for the purpose. This feeding was used with a few babies only one month of age, some two and others three months of age. Most of those with whom it was used were between three and nine months old. It was found that most of the babies liked the soy bean milk after a day of trial, and all grew and thrived. The eruption faded satisfactorily in nearly all cases. Both cod liver oil and fruit juice were given, as is the present-day custom.

IT'S THE DEPRESSION.

CATHOLIC BODY AIDS 800 NEEDY PERSONS

St. Vincent de Paul Society Is Told of Many Schools Lacking Religion.

Basing his assertion on a survey of nonsectarian educational institutions, the Rev. Dr. Maurice Sheehy, assistant to the rector of Catholic University, declared that the American youth of today is receiving no instruction about God and is not taught that he is accountable to a Supreme Being, at a meeting yesterday morning of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of Washington, in honor of the feast of St. Vincent de Paul.

Reports were received from 28 parish conferences indicating that during the past quarter more than $11,500 was expended by the society in relieving more than 800 persons in distress.

Reporting for the special works committee, John G. Bowen, of Georgetown University, announced that several hundred confessions had been heard at penal institutions visited by the committee.

Col. Claude Jones, superintendent of the National Training School for Boys, asked the society to continue to visit the school. He pointed out that the moral value of the work done by organizations like the St. Vincent de Paul Society is of great assistance in making good citizens out of deficient boys.

Father Raphael M. Burke, O. P., prior of St. Dominic's Church, declared that due to the pressure of high rents his parish is rapidly becoming overloaded with charity families. The conference under his charge, he said, is deeply in debt with no relief in sight. He asked the other conferences for assistance.

Dr. John O'Grady, director of the Catholic Charities of the District, and secretary of the National Catholic Charities, thanked the society for its aid, and predicted that the next few years would mark the society as a strong arm in restoring social and economic tranquillity.

ALL ARTICLES SHAKEN OUT

One of the 5 CERTIFIED Features in a Service GUARANTEED for Quality

HERE is a feature that housewives will really appreciate. Just imagine having your bundle returned with the laundering process completed except for the ironing.

New 5¢ HOME-WAY

The Economical Unfinished Service

FIVE CERTIFIED FEATURES

1. BUNDLES INDIVIDUALLY WASHED: In the washroom, every bundle is properly classified for color and fabric and washed in individual NET BAGS, the same as our finished services, with the purest materials, according to formulas approved by the Laundry Owners' National Association.

2. NECESSARY PIECES PROPERLY STARCHED: All articles requiring starch are carefully starched by hand with the same high-grade starch used in the finished services, making ironing easier, producing a beautiful finish and imparting that necessary body to clothing to keep it looking fresh.

3. EACH PIECE SHAKEN OUT AND NEATLY FOLDED: Each piece of flat work and wearing apparel is shaken out and neatly folded, classified according to color, with flat work and wearing apparel separated. Each piece when picked up comes up alone; no knots or tangles; no pieces spoiled by contact with fugitive colors.

4. SILKS, WOOLENS, BLANKETS AND CURTAINS: You can safely include any article—even silks, woolens, curtains and blankets. Nothing is used in washing that will injure them. Silks will not change color and woolens will not shrink. Curtains will be starched, if desired. Blankets need only to be hung in the air for drying.

5. WRAPPED IN WAXED PAPER: Your bundle is returned neatly wrapped in wax paper, making a practically air-tight package which prevents mildew and insures the safe delivery of your laundry free from odors, fresh and clean-smelling. Your bundle returned ready to iron, may be completed at your convenience.

LEGION CONVENTION PLANS ANNOUNCED

Virginia's Department Will Convene in Alexandria Next Monday.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.,
Phone Alexandria 523.

Representative Menalcus Lankford, of the Second Virginia District; John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the American Legion national legislative committee, and Watson B. Miller, chairman of the legion's national rehabilitation committee, will be the principal speakers at the opening business session of the fourteenth annual convention of the American Legion, Department of Virginia, and the eleventh annual convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Virginia, to be held in the Ingomar Theater next Monday morning.

The four-day gathering will get under way next Sunday, with registration at the chamber of commerce for all delegates, alternates and visitors. The first official affair will be the child welfare luncheon at noon that day, in the George Mason Hotel, presided over jointly by Mrs. Richard B. English, of Alexandria, child welfare officer of the American Legion, and Mrs. W. P. Mathews, of Richmond, chairman of the child welfare committee of the auxiliary. This luncheon, a subscription affair, will be attended by all chairmen of the child welfare work of the auxiliary units and by the members of a special committee appointed from the legion by Commander A. T. Finch. It is also open to all interested and reservations may be made with Mrs. English.

From 4 to 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon the local auxiliary, assisted by the Eight and Forty Society of Virginia, will entertain at a tea in historic Gadsby's Tavern. Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, president of the local unit, will be the official hostess and will be assisted in serving the guests by all of the members of the local unit. This entertainment is open to all legionnaires and auxiliary members. Following the tea a meeting of the executive committee of the auxiliary will be held in Gadsby's, presided over by the department president, Mrs. B. M. Roszel, of Winchester.

Visitors will be welcomed in all of the churches of the city, although no special service has been arranged in any one particular church. Registration headquarters will post a schedule of the churches in the city and their location.

Welcomes will be extended at the opening session by the Alexandria Post commander, John S. Arnold, on behalf of the city by Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, and on behalf of the Eighth Congressional District by Representative Howard Worth Smith, of Alexandria.

Greetings will also be extended for the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of Virginia, by Mrs. B. M. Roszel, the president; for the Forty and Eight by Grand Chef de Gare John J. Gieson, and from the Eight and Forty by Miss Hilda S. White. Le Chapeau Departmentale. Vocal selections will be by Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, president of the local unit.

Following the joint opening session the business meeting of the legion will continue in the Ingomar Theater, while the auxiliary session will convene in the Young People's Building, in South Washington street. The department parade will be a feature of the first afternoon, followed by the commander's banquet, in Lee-Jackson School auditorium, Duke street extended, and the grand ball in the armory will complete the day.

Tuesday morning, Maj. Paul B. Malone, commandant of the Third Corps area, will address the gathering; also Forest G. Cooper, national vice commander; Robert Tolson, assistant chairman of national rehabilitation committee, and Henry C. Bourne, commander of the Department of North Carolina. That afternoon a trip to Quantico Marine Base by boat will be the main event, with an old-time Army dinner served there. On the return to Alexandria a boxing contest will be followed by a grand ball in the armory.

Election of officers, selection of the 1933 convention city, the awards of trophies, prizes and certificates and election of delegates to the national convention will be the order of business on Wednesday morning, and in the afternoon Arlington Post, No. 139, and auxiliary will have charge of a pilgrimage to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Magdalene Hallett, wife of Lieut. Col. Harley J. Hallett, U. S. A., who died on Saturday at her home at Fort Humphreys, will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from the chapel at Fort Humphreys. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery. The body is at Demaine's Funeral Home, 817 King street, and the procession will leave that place at 8:45 o'clock tomorrow morning for Fort Humphreys. Besides her husband, the deceased is survived by two sons, Harley J. Hallett, jr., and D. H. Hallett.

Mrs. Clara Aurelia Stuart, wife of George M. Stuart, died on Saturday in the Alexandria hospital, and the body will be sent today to Richmond, Va., for burial.

Murder-Suicide Found After Traffic Charge

Cleveland, Ohio, July 24 (A.P.).—Failure to obey a traffic summons led investigating officers to discovery of a 48-hour-old murder and suicide today. The body of Mrs. Golden Beck, 36, clad in pajamas, with two bullet wounds, was found on a bed in her apartment, while the body of her husband, Charles, 48, commercial agent for the Erie Railroad, was found in the bathroom where he had fallen after placing a revolver in his mouth and pulling the trigger.

A patrolman had ticketed the Beck auto on Friday for violation of a parking law and his investigation of failure to obey the summons led to discovery of the tragedy. Police say they found three notes written by Beck evidently in suicidal mood.

Arias Ends 3-Day Washington Visit

Panama's Next President Held Informal Talks With Hurley.

(Associated Press.)

President-elect Harmodio Arias, of Panama, departed quietly yesterday after a three-day visit filled with receptions and diplomatic courtesies.

He said he intended sailing from New York for home August 4. Only Minister Horacio Alfaro and members of the Legation personnel and Director General Leo S. Rowe, of the Pan-American Union, were at the station to see him off.

Talks with Secretary Hurley of the War Department, which has supervision over the Panama Canal, and other high officials, Arias said, were informal. The president-elect said he would wait until he had talked with President Ricardo Alfaro before making any statement on plans for resuming discussion of the treaty which has been pending with the United States to clear up questions relating to the Panama Canal. He said he had not talked of these questions with Alfaro during the campaign.

BONUS ARMY CHIEFS GO IN COURT TODAY

identity of such was kept secret last night at bonus headquarters.

In the event the veterans refuse to vacate the grounds under Treasury control, police action is undoubted. Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, was away for a short rest last night, but it is known that he has had a comprehensive plan in force to meet emergencies since the advent of the bonus army here. This was demonstrated on the night of the adjournment of Congress, when within an hour one-third of the police personnel of the city augmented Federal police in front of the White House against possible demonstrations by picketers.

Wait Till Time Comes.

Waters indicated he would advocate a plan of passive resistance at first. If this fails, the answer of the veterans as to what they would do is met with a shrug of the shoulders and the remark, 'Wait until the time comes."

Federal authorities have already moved for early evacuation of the Anacostia grounds. Legal methods of evicting the veterans are being studied, and District Commissioners, police and Federal officials are planning action some time this week or early next week.

Most of the babies and children at the crowded Anacostia base of the veterans went without milk yesterday. Sources of supplies of the vital juvenile food failed to come through and this contingency caused some distress.

The milk situation last night, however, took on a brighter hue when Joseph L. Heffernan, publisher of the B. E. F. News, promised funds for milk today and further guaranteed a continuance of the supply.

Doughboys March Today in Dominion

Precedent to Be Set When Armed Americans Aid Wolf Week Fete.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 24 (A.P.).—Armed American soldiers will tread Canadian soil tomorrow, some historians said for the first time since 1814, as the Ontario Sault opens its "Wolf Week" festivities with "American Day."

Seven hundred Fort Brady regulars and C. M. T. C. trainers will cross the St. Marys River and march from the dock with Canadian troops. There will be a flag raising, the Michigan Sault having contributed a British flag to replace the one taken by American troops when the Ontario Sault was captured and burned in 1812.

"Wolf Week" is the creation of J. W. Curran, newspaper editor of the Ontario Sault, who has attracted wide attention by his debunking of current wolf lore. He has lost no opportunity to emphasize his agreement with Trapper Sam Martin, of Lone Dog, Ontario, who announced after years of observation that "a man who says he has been et by a wolf is a liar."

G.O.P. IN ARLINGTON TO HOLD CONVENTION

Series of Preliminary Mass Meetings Announced for August 5.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Having completed plans for the county Republican convention August 8 in the Lyon Park Community House, County Chairman J. E. Spaulding announced last night that precinct mass meetings for the selection of the 144 delegates will be held August 5. The following places have been designated in the several voting precincts: Arlington, Arlington Firemen's Hall; Ballston, offices of Ray Cogswell; Carne, Ruby Lee Minar's real estate offices; Cherrydale, in hall near the Cherrydale station of the Old Dominion Railway; Clarendon, No. 1, G. W. Clever's real estate offices; Clarendon, No. 2, Spaulding Building; East Falls Church, Anderson Building; Glencarlyn, library; Lyon Park, community house; Rosslyn, W. R. Rose offices, and Virginia Highlands, Hume School.

The county convention will select the new county chairman who will direct the activities of the party during the coming campaign.

L. C. MacPherson, one of the county's outstanding Republicans, is a leading candidate for the office. Chairman Spaulding announced he would not be a candidate for re-election.

Plans are being completed by members of the Cherrydale United Baptist Church for a "variety festival" Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week, on a lot at the intersection of the Military road and Lee highway. The proceeds will be applied to the church building fund.

Meetings of the Thrifton Village Improvement League, held on the last Monday of each month, have been called on for July and August, according to an announcement last night by H. C. Roberts, president.

Unless matters needing immediate attention arise, President Roberts said there will be no meetings of the league until the last Monday in September.

Fairfax Delegate To Talk at V. P. I.

Homemakers' Session to Attract Many Women Over Virginia.

Seven or more delegates from Fairfax County, Va., will attend the annual meeting of the Virginia Homemakers Institute at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg this week, Mrs. E. D. Vosbury, of Merrifield, president of the Fairfax County Council, will give an address at the joint open meeting of the Institute of Rural Affairs tomorrow evening. Mrs. Egbert Thompson, of Prince William County, will give a report of the year's work of the home demonstration clubs and advisory councils in the counties of northern Virginia.

Mrs. Mark Turner, of Forestville, is the delegate from the Fairfax County Home Demonstration Agents Advisory Council, with Mrs. L. Ferguson representing the Floris Home Demonstration Club, Mrs. Mae Roby the Navy Club, Miss Charlotte Creel the Annandale Club, Mrs. Marvin Sanders the Forestville Club, and Mrs. Margaret C. Vosbury the Merrifield Club.

Miss Sarah E. Thomas, county home demonstration agent, and H. B. Derr, county agricultural agent, also will attend the institute.

DOMINIONS' TARIFF DEMANDS HIT SNAG

ish cabinet, at the outset that the best means of preference appeared to be the lowering of tariffs for the dominions as opposed to raising barriers against foreign countries.

Thus the question of favoring empire nations without increasing the burden to British consumers has become the question of the hour, and the methods of answering it are being discussed on all sides.

As the matter now stands Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa are holding out for British tariff barriers against the rest of the world on the agricultural products they sell, principally wheat, meats and fruits.

To the British way of thinking this idea holds the possibility of narrowing the United Kingdom's source of supplies and increasing British living costs.

Methodist Church Group To Fight Dry Law Repeal

Lake Junaluska, N. C., July 24 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the laymen's conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South, committed itself to an unrelenting fight against repeal of the eighteenth amendment in its annual report which was made public here tonight.

The report recited social, economic and moral benefits which it said have been derived from national prohibition, and charged "liquor forces" with "using its own lawless acts" as a means of molding public opinion against the law, and "endeavoring to destroy the unity of political parties by making it a partisan issue."

Maryland Mayors Guests At Camp of National Guard

Reserve Soldiers of First Infantry Present Regimental Review; Col. D. John Markey Entertains Visitors at Dinner.

By Staff Correspondent.

Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., July 24.—Mayor's day was observed today at the encampment of the First Infantry of the Maryland National Guard with mayors from many towns of the State as guests of the reserve soldiers.

They were entertained at dinner by Col. D. John Markey. Later they witnessed a regimental review, in which 1,107 soldiers and 67 officers participated.

Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, commander of the Third Corps Area, will inspect the camp tomorrow and the soldiers will begin their rifle range practice under the guidance of experienced instructors.

The Rev. Fred C. Reynolds, chaplain of the National Guard, conducted Protestant Church services today in the grove of the camp. Mass was celebrated for the Catholic infantrymen by the Rev. F. Geiger, of Blue Ridge Summit, Md.

48 VICTIMS SUBMIT TO HAY FEVER TEST

Illinois University Conducts Experiments to Find Temporary Relief.

Chicago, July 24 (A.P.).—When ten million Americans open the hay fever season after August 1 with a salvo of soul jarring sneezes, 48 of their kind will be doing their best by science.

The University of Illinois college of medicine announced today that it again will carry on research in the whys and treatments of that ailment. The equipment will be more adequate this year.

Last year, from August 15 until frost, 24 men and 24 women were given bed and board in an almost pollen-free ward at the university clinic. In shifts of eight, they slept there for seven consecutive nights. In the daytime they were free to go about as they pleased.

"We found they slept well at night," said Dr. Clarence A. Johnson, "but the minute they hit the outside air, they started sneezing again.

Air Filters Set Up.

"This year we plan to approach the experiments from a different angle. Where last years we forced the air into the room through a complicated series of filters which eradicated most of the ragweed pollen, this year we intend to set up a more perfect set of filters which will take all possible pollen from the air."

The 48 subjects, Dr. Johnson added, have already been selected.

"Last year hundreds applied for admission. This year we've had the subjects selected for months.

"Where last year we selected anybody who had a good case of hay fever, this year we're more careful. We're taking only those with fever uncomplicated by any other ailment."

Temporary Relief Expected.

The university, he said, doesn't expect to find an immediate cure by its research. The experiments are conducted in the hope that a fairly economical system may be perfected by which addicts might be brought temporary relief.

Nobody knows exactly what causes hay fever, he said. All that scientists feel sure of is that whatever the cause, it exists in the pollen of ragweed and kindred plants. The lowliest ragweed seems to produce the finest sniffles.

Dr. Johnson is loathe to say there's a cure.

"People try everything," he said, "but without apparent success.

"The only way to escape hay fever is to go where there isn't any ragweed."

"Where's that?" he was asked.

"The farther north the better—say about Hudson Bay."

ACREAGE OF COTTON 10 PER CENT LOWER

"King" of Economic Life in South Losing Grip Due to Depression.

Jackson, Miss., July 24 (A.P.).—King Cotton, sometimes kind and sometimes cruel despot who has ruled the South's economic life—and to a certain degree its social welfare—for decades, has been dethroned. Many Southerners are shouting about newfound freedom from the whims of the cotton market and the disadvantages of an almost universal policy of one-crop producttion.

Economic stress, and its consequent demand for production of more food and feedstuffs on each farm, is believed to be turning the trick that all the pleading and urging of agricultural experts during the years failed to bring about. The skidding price of cotton offered less inducement to farmers to take "just one more chance" on cotton alone.

One Southern agricultural commissioner, J. C. Holton, of Mississippi, says the trend away from dependence on one-crop production is the "most hopeful sign of the times."

Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture on acreage as of July 1 showed a decrease of nearly 10 per cent in land planted to cotton in the United States, as compared with the same date in 1931.

Of the States listed individually, only Virginia and Missouri showed they had planted this year as much cotton as in former years. And they are not important in world trade as cotton-producing States. Virginia's acreage last July 1 was 71,000, or 108 per cent of the 1931 acreage, and Missouri's was put at the same figure as in 1931—350,000 acres.

Texas, the banner cotton State of the Nation, had 15,769,000 acres in cotton on July 1, 1931, but cut this figure by 19 per cent this year.

The total acreage for the United States on July 1, 1932, was estimated at 37,290,000, compared with 41,189,000 on the same date last year.

Allowing for the average abandonment during the past ten years—3.1 per cent—this would make this year's acreage the smallest since 1922.

Irish Retaliatory Tariff May Be in Effect Today

Dublin, Irish Free State, July 24 (A.P.).—The Free State tariff against British imports, enacted in retaliation for a British tariff on Irish goods, is expected to go into effect tomorrow.

The cabinet has approved the list of articles effected, but the list has not been published. It is believed to be a short list, however, because of the government's desire to tread slowly on this new path.

SOVIET OPENS WAY TO CAPITALIST BASIS

Decree Issued to Permit Artisans to Trade for Private Profit.

Moscow, July 24 (U.P.).—Extensive rights to produce and sell goods on the old-fashioned "capitalist" basis were granted to private groups of artisans today by a government decree. This is considered one of the most significant moves to revive private profit in the Communist state.

The decree was issued jointly by the Tzik, or central executive committee of the Soviet union, and the Sovnarkom, which is the council of people's commissars, headed by Premier Viacheslav Molotov. It was issued in the hope of overcoming the scarcity of manufactured articles in Russia, where such products recently have been available only to an extent far below the demand.

The importance of the move lies in the revival of private profit and stimulation of a large class of producers, who previously have made up the so-called cooperative artisan cartels.

These groups worked exclusively for the government on the basis of fixed prices. They were subject to the most strict official supervision.

The present decree removes such restrictions and reduces taxes to permit the groups to buy raw materials and to sell their finished products in the open market. Under the new arrangement they will be able to make the biggest profit possible from their products.

The government promised not to interfere with these private groups, granting them the right to dispose of their capital in virtually any way they see fit.

Furthermore, Communist party officials were ordered to obey the decree and to encourage the artisans to increase their productivity to meet the needs of the nation.

This decree was in line with the more liberal policy pursued by Josef V. Stalin in the last year, granting various rights to intellectual groups to secure their aid for the Soviets and also in relaxing the restrictions on private activity of peasants.

Wife and Lodger Held in Man's Death.

Chicago, July 24 (A.P.).—Police today found Mrs. Petrinella Kucinskas, 30, preparing a picnic lunch in the basement of her home. Upstairs they discovered her husband, Anton, shot to death. Officers were called when neighbors reported hearing shots. Authorities held the wife and a lodger, Michael Sheima.

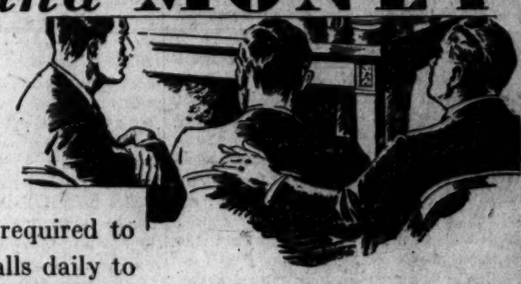
Let's make the most of our TIME and MONEY



A manufacturer's agent adopted this plan to assist his salesmen:—

Each salesman was required to make five telephone calls daily to arrange personal visits to customers in other towns. Also, each was required to call three out-of-the-way customers daily for orders.

Within five months the time required to cover the territory was reduced 29% and the agent's business was increased 18%—over half of which was credited to the use of the telephone.

"Within the last two weeks we have sold 3,000 barrels of flour by telephone at a sales cost of less than $5."

SENATOR BORAH'S DREAM.

Senator Borah's utopian dream of setting the world right through a mammoth international conference is of interest only from an academic viewpoint. It was hardly necessary for the senator to explain that he was speaking only for himself. His address was not a practical consideration of the questions raised by the Lausanne conference, but an eloquent expression of hope that problems which have thus far proved insoluble could suddenly be disposed of by a world economic conclave.

It is difficult to reconcile the senator's high praise for the Lausanne conference with his prescription for readjustment of the war debts. At Lausanne, he says, "the past, with its impossible judgments ended and a new era with brighter promise opened." Mr. Borah seems to ignore the fact that all Europe accomplished at the recent conference on reparations was a resolution to transfer the costs of the World War to American taxpayers. Yet he finds hope for the future in that decision, because he thinks that it would be to the interest of the American people to wipe out the war debts—under certain conditions.

Before arousing any enthusiasm over this plan, it would be well to analyze the conditions on which it is predicated. Senator Borah is no ordinary cancellationist. He wants to be sure that the proposed sacrifice by American taxpayers would be translated into increased prosperity for the world and not used to build stronger armies in Europe. He says:

> Any economic or financial scheme, therefore, looking to full cooperation upon the part of the American people, the American taxpayers, I venture to believe, must rest upon the reasonable assurance that the earnings of the people, the savings of the people, the fruits of any settlement had, will be devoted to constructive and not destructive enterprises.

In this one sentence Senator Borah makes his entire proposal impossible. He would put the United States in the position of buying disarmament. Europe has just refused to reduce its gigantic war machines, in spite of the economic burdens they impose on taxpayers in this period of hard times. The Geneva conference fully manifested that there is no will to disarm. It is fanciful to suppose, therefore, that any permanent solution of the armament problem could be brought about through bribery from Uncle Sam.

The United States will not attempt to change the policies of any nation by offering it a monetary reward. European governments resent the intimation that they should bow to the will of Uncle Sam on military and financial matters to secure a revision of the war debts. The grandiose conference conceived by the senator from Idaho would probably result in nothing substantial, except fresh animosity between the United States and Europe. It is true that the American people will not consent to cancellation of the debts so long as that action would sustain militarism in Europe. Nevertheless, disarmament and the debts are two separate problems and must be dealt with as such.

Senator Borah's contention that the American people would benefit from cancellation of the debts is not convincing. France, for example, is in a better position to continue payments than the United States is to assume them. What world cause would be served by the transfer of this obligation, which every one admits is equitable and just, from France to America? Inasmuch as these debts are just, and Uncle Sam has already been generous, this country proposes to collect from each government according to its capacity to pay. Any other course would swindle American taxpayers without relieving the general economic situation.

Few students of the problems involved will share Senator Borah's confidence in the efficacy of a general economic conference. The world can not be changed in a day by international conferences or otherwise. The United States may be expected to foster the cause of disarmament whenever there are prospects of making headway. This country will deal fairly and generously with its debtors. But there is slight possibility that the Government will even consider plunging headlong into a world conference designed to achieve what many conferences devoted to specific phases of these international problems have failed to accomplish.

Senator Borah has merely wasted his time in conjecture as to what might be if the temperament of the world were different than it is.

TOURISTS VS. IMPORTS.

Imports into the United States during June exceeded exports. This is the third time since 1926 that a monthly trade balance has been adverse to this country. But the international balance remains favorable, on account of factors other than shipment of goods. Too much emphasis is laid upon export and import trade in calculating the international balance. The transfer of merchandise between nations is only one of many items in the account. It is customary for this country to export more goods abroad than it buys from other countries, because America has vast resources that supply urgent demands of other people. For example, the export of American cotton continues in a large volume in spite of the depression. It is natural that this country should have a continuing favorable balance of trade, even though it is the world's foremost creditor nation.

This does not mean, however, that all the gold in the world will be accumulated in the United States to pay the difference between the value of American exports and imports. Last year, in spite of hard times, American tourists spent $570,000,000 in other countries. Foreign travelers in the United States left only $112,000,000, making an adverse balance for the United States of $458,000,000. Since the excess of exports over imports amounted to only $331,000,000 during that year, it is apparent that tourist expenditures form a more important item in the international balance of payments than does trade.

Other large items included in the list of "invisible exports" must also be considered. Immigrants who have come to America to make a living sent $172,000,000 to relatives in their native countries in 1931. There is nothing on the other side of the ledger to offset this outflow of capital. The American people contributed $39,000,000 last year to foreign charities. In all the "invisible exports" amount to nearly $1,000,000,000.

While the United States is anxious to maintain its export markets, and insists that Europe pay its debts contracted in good faith during and after the war, this country sends capital into all parts of the world. Foreign lending will be resumed as soon as confidence in the economic structure of the world has been restored. Immigrant remittances and tourist travel continue on a grand scale in spite of hard times.

The account with other nations should not be squared by lowering the tariff and destroying the prosperity of the people. The balance is easily maintained by tourist travel and similar means that do not jeopardize the American standard of living. American tourists spend in France five times as much as that country pays on its war debt. Italians living in America send their relatives twice as much as Rome pays to Washington on account of debts.

A lot of unnecessary argument has been devoted to the international balance of payments. If the public would remember that this balance takes account of many items besides war debts and shipments of goods, there would be less misunderstanding as to the effect of American policies upon the equilibrium of the world.

AN EFFICIENT CHAIRMAN.

The District of Columbia received more competent attention from Congress during the last session than is usually the case. No less than thirty-seven bills affecting the welfare of citizens of the District were passed. For this result much credit must be given to Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District committee. In view of highly prejudiced opposition encountered in the House it was only through the earnest and persistent championship of Chairman Norton that these laws are now on the statute books.

A number of the laws enacted had been pending before Congress for years awaiting formal action. Mrs. Norton gave them the energetic attention that was necessary to get them through the House during the last busy weeks of the session. The number of District measures that became laws this year probably is without precedent, and residents of the Capital are fortunate in having a forceful champion in a key position in Congress to further their interests.

Representative Norton is no novice in politics and public service. She has been active in Democratic party councils of New Jersey since 1920, and has been a delegate to the last three Democratic national conventions. In 1924 Mrs. Norton was elected to Congress from the twelfth New Jersey district, the first woman to be sent to the House by the Democratic party. She is now serving her fourth consecutive term.

THE 50-MANPOWER FARMER.

In no field of human endeavor have science and invention done more to increase the productive efforts of man than in agriculture. Scarcely more than a century ago the world-wide problem was to increase food crops rapidly enough to provide for the growing population. Today, in all except backward countries, the universal difficulty is to dispose of the surplus.

As late as 1800 English economists wrote learned essays to demonstrate that, as population increased in geometrical progression and means of subsistence increased only in arithmetical ratio, population would soon over-run subsistence, and starvation would intervene to restore the balance. But two unforeseen factors have appeared, to overthrow the theories of a century and a quarter ago. The ratio of population increase in the more highly developed nations has diminished, and scientific improvements in the production of animal and plant life, combined with the invention of farm machinery, have vastly multiplied food output. The populations of Porto Rico and Cuba increase 100 per cent in about 25 years; the population of the United States doubles in about 50 years, while in France there is hardly any increase. Sharp declines in population statistics in Germany and other European countries due to the war and the depression can scarcely be considered in a general survey. The development of farm machinery during the last 80 years has enormously enhanced the productive capacity of every man engaged in agricultural production. Dr. William Crocker, director of the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, estimates that from the sickle to the self-binder man has increased his efficiency fifty-fold in producing breadstuffs. From the crooked stick to the modern gang plows, pulled by tractors, similar advances have been made in breaking the soil. Explosives make short work of clearing wooded land. Irrigation changes deserts into farms. The world's problem now is not how to produce food, but how to dispose of the surplus.

SHORT HOURS BUT NO DOLE.

The American Federation of Labor has reversed its position on compulsory unemployment insurance. For many years the federation opposed anything resembling a dole to workingmen. At its last convention the federation went on record against compulsory unemployment insurance after President William Green and Vice President Matthew Woll had denounced it as an "unsafe policy which will destroy our trade union structure". It has been generally recognized by labor as well as industry that anything akin to a dole is not suited to the American economic system.

In spite of this vigorous stand, the executive council of the federation has instructed Mr. Green to formulate a compulsory unemployment insurance plan for presentation to Congress. It is obvious that the central organization has yielded to the hysteria of local groups and radical individuals who think that insurance for the jobless would help the present situation. That, of course, is a delusion. Even if a system of unemployment insurance were to be adopted, it could not be applied to those who are already out of work. It would probably retard the recovery of business and industry and thus defeat the purpose of relieving jobless men.

One foremost objection of organized labor to compulsory insurance is that it threatens to break down trade unionism. When a man is receiving insurance benefits he is required to take the first job that is offered within his trade, or his right to continued allowances is cut off. The tendency is, of course, to force union men into open shops and thus break down the system of collective bargaining. An effort will be made to overcome this objection in the plan to be prepared by Mr. Green, but its success is doubtful. The idea of supporting men on a dole when work of any sort is available is repugnant to the American people.

Agitation for compulsory unemployment insurance has had no support since a special Senate committee, after a thorough study, announced that it would not be practicable or desirable in the United States. Support is concentrating upon more substantial plans to mitigate unemployment. Shorter and more flexible hours of labor are steadily gaining approval. There is hope that regulation of working hours to market demands may bring about greater stability and more equitable distribution of purchasing power. But compulsory payment of meager handouts to idle men holds out promise of nothing except demoralization and economic waste.

Organized labor would do well to concentrate on shortening hours of labor and a more equitable distribution of work. Efforts to fasten a compulsory unemployment insurance law upon the United States will probably be a waste of time and effort.

It isn't the heat of the debate on repeal—it's the humidity.

A MACHINE-AGE ANOMALY

From the Christian Science Monitor.

Of the three basic necessities of mankind—food, clothing and shelter—the United States appears to have mastered the production problems presented by the first and second. It is in the provision of shelter that it has demonstrated inadequacy.

In evidence of this it suffices simply to cite the immense slums of practically all large—and most lesser—cities. An outstanding symbol of profound economic maladjustment, these slums have persisted and grown in defiance of the progress of a technological system whose foremost product has been material advance.

American slums, according to a recent report of the President's Conference on Home Building and Home Ownership, are the most expensive form of housing known. The community pays for them in taxes for utilities, for police and fire protection, in fire insurance, in depreciation of adjoining property, in social work. However great the cost of wiping out slums, asserts the report, it is not so great as the cost of maintaining them. And in their elimination and the substitution of suitable homes for wage earners lies a potential market compared to which that for low-priced automobiles is insignificant.

It is interesting to observe that in building construction alone among America's major industries the system of mass production has received only limited application. Individual houses are still made to order, much as is a tailor-made suit. Construction engineers, however, foresee in the near future the mass production of homes at low prices, when prospective purchasers will make selections from catalogues, achieving individuality for their homes through added features of their own contriving.

Some look askance at this prospect as esthetically undesirable. Of far greater importance, however, is the fact that mass production of buildings holds a promise of extirpation of slums, of creation of wealth and values, and of the raising of living standards for enormous segments of the population. The task of substituting adequate housing for our slums offers a tremendous opportunity to private enterprise. And if private business does not undertake that task, the state, local or national, can hardly avoid it.

Chile's new government desisted from its transformation scenes long enough for neighbor Argentina to recognize it.

Those who think the Geneva conference didn't accomplish positive results evidently overlooked the tentative acceptance in principle of several things.

The Yale bacteriologist who found more germs in his room after it had been swept and mopped than were there before should be a great comfort to poor housekeepers.

Would a good, self-liquidating lemonade stand be eligible for a reconstruction loan?

Canada sells more to the United States than to all the British Empire. If Mother England and the seven sisters would make up a pool to absorb the exports to America it would be easier for Canada to cooperate.

When the Geneva delegates reach home they are also going to find it difficult to disarm criticism.

CROWS.

I sometimes think the noisy crows
Like squabbling men who come to blows,
Conventions old whereat they may
Discuss the issues of their day.
In woods, not very far from here,
The black-robed delegates appear,
And stationed on the tallest tree
The wily sentinel I see.
Soon rivaling all human dins,
A disputation loud begins.
'Tis plain the crows do not agree
On platform plank or policy.
Vociferously they debate
Beyond a doubt affairs of state,
And greet with boos or loud applause
Some eloquently uttered caws.
With clamor very much like man's
They imitate Republicans,
Or wrangling long I take it that's
A sign that they are Democrats.
But here's the question I propose:
Are crows like men or men like crows?

Where None But Peasants Kneel, the King Who Kneels Seems a Peasant

By ROBERT QUILLEN

HUMILITY is a virtue only in those who have no reason to be humble.

Men who make no effort to discipline themselves are humble or proud according to their station. One is servile because poverty makes him afraid and the other is arrogant because wealth gives him power.

If these two should cultivate equal humility, it does not follow that they would attain equal virtue, for the beginning of righteousness is the control of natural weaknesses. Since the rich man's weakness is arrogance, any humility he achieves is a virtue; but the other, whose weakness is a craven humility, can achieve equal virtue only by developing a decent pride.

Ordinary men do not conquer their weaknesses. Their humility or arrogance is a natural reaction, determined by ill or good fortune. If they have reason to be humble, they are humble; if they have reason to be arrogant, they are arrogant.

Having observed this much, the world assumes that the reverse is equally true. If a man is arrogant, it assumes that he is sufficiently important to justify arrogance. If he is humble, it assumes that his unimportance makes humility logical and necessary.

There you have the case against humility in a snobbish and superficial world.

Last winter a newspaperman made experimental use of the soft answer that turns away wrath. All argumentative letters received within a certain period were answered in terms of exaggerated contrition and humility.

One of the letters came from a college president, one from a miller, two from merchants, one from a preacher and three from skilled laborers. All were courteous and a little bit deferential. But the newspaperman's humble and contrite replies brought answering letters that were in every instance abusive, overbearing and contemptuous.

The moral is that even a hound dog with yellow in his cosmos will bite if you turn to run.

The busy world has time for no more than a snap judgment. Because menials are humble, it assumes that the humble invariably are menials.

New York Herald Tribune.

John Nance Garner's constituents in the Fifteenth Texas District say they are going to renominate and re-elect him to Congress in November. From this distance it would look as though they had little faith in the success of the Democratic national ticket. If Mr. Garner is to be elected Vice President, it would seem a bit foolish not to elect his successor in Congress at the same time.

Down in Texas, however, they explain that their plan is largely one of compliment to Mr. Garner; and then, of course, they probably have in mind that if by any chance the national ticket is to be defeated they would want Mr. Garner to remain in the House and Texas to continue to be honored with the Speakership.

Senator Glass' Dry Amendment.

Kansas City Times.

Senator Glass says his proposed substitute for the eighteenth amendment is in harmony with the Democratic plank and is a "proposition which no Republican who is disposed to be guided by party declarations can resent or resist." That means the Glass proposition must be in harmony with the Republican plank too. As a matter of fact, it is, rather closely. But its relationship to the senator's own party declaration is extremely remote. If it is designed to carry out the Democratic plank, it could mean carrying it only to one place, the cemetery. And who knows but that the dry senator from Virginia would be ready to head a procession in that identical direction?

Not So Bad.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

To sum up the session's record, the things most greatly feared have not come to pass. One by one a flood of most radical and dangerous proposals was rejected. And this Congress has done about all that it could do in the way of legislation directly designed to mitigate the effects of the depression and turn the country toward recovery. President Hoover won a partial victory on taxation, a start has been made toward economy—appropriations are actually $850,000,000 under those for the previous fiscal year—and the Government's real activities have been placed on a firm foundation. If the accomplishments of this first session are not the best on record, they are very far from being the worst.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Hints That Police Protection May Be Needed for the Suburban Housewife.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial in the issue of July 23 concerning B. E. F. members imposing upon residents of the District of Columbia is one of the most sensible utterances that I have read.

I do not propose to take issue with the controversy between the Government and the B. E. F., but I think it high time the housewives of this vicinity got some consideration. We are called upon many times each day. Answering my door bell today, I was assured by a member of the bonus force that they would stay here until the bonus was paid and "they would not starve, either." He insisted that I give him work, and when told that I prefer to give work to the poor of the District of Columbia, he sneered and was very sarcastic.

I am of the opinion that the poor of our own city should get first consideration. I can not understand why it is necessary for the housewives of Washington to be responsible for the earning capacity of the thousands piling in on us when they should remain at home, among friends, who would probably help them, as we are doing with our own residents.

If these men continue to pester me, and especially if they continue their line of chatter at the door, I am going to call the police and I shall expect them to give me the protection for which I pay as a taxpayer. They have even gone so far as to solicit funds at the door for tobacco money. I welcome a visit from our own poor, but resent a request from these misguided intruders. Can not something be done about it?

A PESTERED HOUSEWIFE.

Suggests Recess Appointment for Judge Wilkerson, Nemesis of Al Capone.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have just learned of the neglect of Congress in failing to confirm Judge Wilkerson as a member of the Circuit Court of Appeals. I wish that I could be charitable enough to believe that the pressure of other matters was responsible for this inexcusable neglect, but I am firmly convinced that it was a result of prejudice.

Chicago is still waging its war on crime, trying to oust the gang that Al Capone brought into being. Chicago is hampered in that fight because the Senate refused to approve the promotion of the man who put Capone behind the bars. I think it is an outrage. Judge Wilkerson performed a greater service for this country than any other man on the Federal bench last year. Yet he is denied recognition because a few members of the Senate fear that he could not be relied upon to accept dictation from them.

Why doesn't President Hoover give Judge Wilkerson a recess appointment? He deserves that recognition. He is an able judge. If the President would give Judge Wilkerson a recess appointment, Congress would not have the nerve to oust him next December. The importance of the principle involved would justify vigorous and perhaps unusual procedure.

Housewife Discusses Bonus Army Question From Home Standpoint.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I can not agree with Mrs. Ruttencutter in regard to encouraging the bonus boys. Of course, they can get no work as long as they loaf around Washington. Why not go to their home States where they may find work?

We, as Christians, should help our home poor, but when we have them from 48 States thrown in our backyard it is time something was done. As long as we feed and clothe the boys they apparently sit and wait for us to do so. Commander Waters says some of them have no home to go to. They had at least ten very prosperous years after the war. If they could save nothing then the bonus would not go far. Our soldiers of previous wars waited until Uncle Sam could pay them. These should do the same. They are no more needy than many others—just a case of something for nothing.

MRS. E. L.

People Who Did Not Go to the Front Have Troubles, Too.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Commander Waters does not realize that back of his bonus army are some 6,000,000 unemployed, who were told in 1917-18 that their work was absolutely essential to the successful prosecution of the war. They have no certificates to borrow on, no bonus coming, even in 1945. Yet they do not band together to make themselves a general nuisance. They do not keep the police officers in a continual state of suspense. They do not attempt picketing of the Capitol and the White House. Many of them are fathers of families; many were too old for combat service, even if they had wanted to go; many of them had young children to look after, and old parents.

If greater taxes or heavier pay cuts will help them, many of us still employed will gladly do our share for the benefit of all the unemployed, but not to help merely a noisy minority.

Give Us Real Beer or Shut Up Till We Get Repeal, Echoes C. R. K.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I think your wet correspondent, H. J. Keller, is perfectly right when he says "Give us real beer or shut up until we can get repeal!"

The 2.75 beer offered by Senator Bingham and his wets is like the foamy glass of which we used to say that it had too much "collar." LABOR GROUP URGES SUPPORT FOR WETS

Elect Dry Foes to Congress and Take Eye Off Platforms, Is Advice.

(Associated Press.)

Labor's national committee for modification of the Volstead act yesterday advised its associate and cooperative groups to center 1932 campaign efforts on electing congressional candidates favoring immediate modification "regardless of political party affiliations."

In a statement issued by Matthew Woll, its president, the committee—authorized by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor—said that a President' attitude on the question of changing national prohibition became involved only when Congress might vote a revision of the Volsted act and that even then a two-thirds vote could make his signature unnecessary.

Discussing the attitude of the major party presidential candidates, the committee said that while Gov. Roosevelt "has manifested his approval for immediate modification of the Volstead act," President Hoover "has not yet announced his attitude on this subject, though his point of view, while food administrator * * * was, and is, in complete accord with organized labor's demand for immediate restoration of a beverage containing not more than 2.75 per cent alcoholic content by weight."

Attention on Candidates.

"There can be no possible legislative or constitutional relief without support of members of both major political parties," the committee states. "* * * There exists, therefore, the necessity of extreme care and caution on the part of all who are sincere in their desire to change our present national prohibition policy not to become divided on political party lines, but center attention on the respective candidates for both branches of the Congress and to ascertain their individual points of view and attitude rather than being governed wholly and solely by platform declarations."

Touching upon the eighteenth amendment, the committee said: "Both major political party conventions have expressed their disapproval of the eighteenth amendment, and, in substance, have pronounced against a continuation of the effort to secure total abstinence by constitutional prohibition.

"While both political party conventions have declared likewise against the return of the saloon, the Republican party pronouncement would accomplish that end through some form of Federal control while the Democratic pronouncement would accomplish the same end through State control. This, as we understand the political party declarations, marks the sole important and definite distinction between the two political parties on this subject. * * *

No Constitutional Authority.

"The fact should be clearly borne in mind that the President of the United States has no constitutional authority over such proposals. * * * Political party declarations on such subjects are therefore directed specifically, not to the President, but to members of the Senate and House * * *.

"The representatives of both political parties feel themselves free to choose that method of removing national constitutional prohibition which to them seems best and most expedient. * * * To assure success in that direction it will require the support of States controlled by the Republican party as well as those States controlled by the Democratic party."

Lutherans' Convention Will Study Youth Aims

Los Angeles, July 24 (A.P.).—Spokesmen for 55,000 young men and women in America and Canada will voice their opinions on the prospects of youth in the future as the fortieth international convention of the Walther League, Lutheran organization, opens tomorrow for a week's session.

Religious services, concerts and a sectional meeting were held yesterday. The convention will open tomorrow with addresses of welcome by Dr. George H. Sabichi, representing Gov. James Rolph, jr., and Mayor John Porter.

Connally Stresses Economic Problem

Texan Assails Activities of Secretaries Hurley, Mills and Hyde.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Connally, of Texas, yesterday asserted that the paramount issues in the presidential campaign are economic and that "November will witness a grand inquest on the Republican record."

In a statement issued through the Democratic national committee the Texan said that "Secretaries Mills, Hurley and Hyde, in charge of the poison gas battalion of the Republican administration, will be quite busy until November."

Connally charged that the administration would use every Government department to further its campaign and that the White House already has brought pressure to bear upon the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to make loans to particular corporations."

Guillotine to Be Sought For Doumer's Assassin

Paris, July 24 (U.P.).—A heavy blade on the guillotine outside the walls of the Sante Prison will end the adventurous career of Paul Gorgouloff if success favors the plans laid tonight for prosecution of the assassin of President Paul Doumer.

Just after noon tomorrow, Gorgouloff will go on trial in the Seine Assizes Court, with the prosecutor asking the death sentence and prepared to battle the defense demand for a new mental examination of the tall, blond Russian terrorist who fired two bullets into the body of the president of the republic.

'Flapper Vote' in Germany Is Called Menace to Hitler

Leader of Iron Front Asserts Nazi Chief's Scorn of Woman Politicians Will Cost Him Election Next Sunday.

Berlin, July 24 (A.P.).—Karl Hoeltermann, head of Germany's Republican guard, the Reichsbanner, and leader of the political combination known as "the Iron Front," is confident that Adolf Hitler's National Socialists will fail to win a parliamentary majority in the Reichstag election, July 31.

He intimated the "flapper vote" of Germany might have much to do with this, for feminine politicians are deeply resentful of the Hitlerites' scorn of women's activities in any field except the former kaiser's "K. K. K." standard of "kinder, kuecher und kirche" (children, kitchen and church).

"Our people have got their fighting blood up and are all primed to stop the Nazis," said Hoeltermann. "I don't believe they have been in such an aggressive mood since the autumn of 1918.

"Far from hurting us politically, Bruening's dismissal has benefited our cause because the president's appointment of Von Papen has clarified the situation. The working class knows now exactly what 'blessings' it might expect under Hitler."

Hoeltermann said it seemed likely that the Catholic Centrists, party of the deposed Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, would hold the balance of power. Other observers commented that this might mean restoration of Bruening to the office from which he was ousted by President von Hindenburg when Franz von Papen was made chancellor.

"The social Democrats have a splendid chance not only of holding their present strength, but also of increasing their representation," Hoeltermann added.

The Social Democrats are the mainstay of democracy in Germany. Numerically they are the second largest party in the republic, being exceeded only by the Nazis. But in the old Reichstag they had 143 seats to 108 held by Hitler's followers.

"A miracle has come to pass," said Hoeltermann, back from the election campaign "front" in the provinces. Youth, including a large number of young women, is joining our ranks in astonishing numbers. A year ago we could only hope for this. Now special women's corps are being formed.

"These young women are mostly between the ages of 18 and 21 and are especially useful in our propaganda campaigns.

"The Nazis, on the other hand, oppose women in politics and have nominated no women candidates for the national legislature. Their attitude was expressed recently with almost brutal frankness in the Prussian Diet, where a Socialist woman deputy replied to a Nazi's taunt "but we women had to send our sons to the front."

This drew the following retort: "Your dumb sheep—that's what they were made for!" The woman's son died in the war.

According to Hoeltermann, the Nazi's haven't yet hit their previous stride, and it seems likely they won't.

Glass Company Reports Profit of $1,830,229

Toledo, Ohio, July 24 (A.P.).—The Owens-Illinois Glass Co. and its subsidiaries reported today a net profit of $1,830,229 for the twelve months ended June 30, 1932, after all charges including depreciation Federal taxes, debenture interest and extraordinary deductions of $339,768, made to write off possible losses on money held in closed banks and depreciation of bonds by the company.

This is equivalent to $1.46 a common share after payment of $480,000 in preferred dividends during the year.

FIGHT ON BLUE LAWS PLANNED IN VIRGINIA

Several Theaters Are Likely to Open on Sunday for Test of Statute.

Plans for a State-wide fight against the Virginia Sunday blue laws were revealed yesterday by the National Association Opposed to Blue Laws, when William P. Barry, president of the association, made public a letter to Attorney General Saunders, of Virginia, asking if the State Supreme Court had passed on the constitutionality of the Sabbath statute.

Under the recent interpretation of the statute, Sunday movies are distinctly illegal, according to Saunders' reply to the association's inquiry. "Other Sunday activities may be permitted when the courts rule that they are 'works of necessity,'" the attorney said.

Residents of Colonial Beach and other recreation centers are protesting vigorously the compromise whereby bowling alleys, fruit stands and soft drink parlors continue to operate unmolested on Sundays, while theaters, billiard parlors and other amusement places are forced to stay closed.

Barry's report to the Antiblue Law Association reveals that petitions have been signed by several hundred Colonial Beach citizens asking that Gov. Pollard demand a "liberal interpretation" of the Virginia blue laws. Telegrams protesting the statute have been sent to the governor by several well-known residents of the beach city.

It is the opinion of antiblue law chiefs that the statute is a contradiction of the religious liberty guaranteed by the State constitution. They plan to open several theaters in the State on the Sabbath to make a test case. In case of conviction of the theater owners, the blue-law opponents plan to appeal to higher courts on grounds of unconstitutionality.

Guaranty Trust Holds Slump Near Low Point

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Recent developments have strengthened the belief in some quarters that the low point of the depression has been approximately reached, said the Guaranty Trust Co. today in its monthly review of business conditions.

"Not much positive change is anticipated durnig the traditionally dull summer weeks that lie immediately ahead," said the company. "Moreover, it is recognized that the outlook is still far from clear in many respects. But in the absence of further unsettling financial disturbances, there is a growing tendency on the part of certain commentators to believe that the beginning of improvement may be seen in the not distant future."

Gandhi's Release Held Sought Anew in India

Poona, India, July 24 (A.P.).—Rumors that negotiations for the release of Mahatma Gandhi, the civil disobedience leader, were under way were revived here today by the arrival of Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. R. Jayakar, members of the recent round table conference.

Both denied they came here for any stated purpose. They said they were only visiting friends, but they are known to be intermediaries between the British viceroy, Lord Irwin, and India's chief disciple of independence.

Shriners Arrive Early For Frisco Convention

San Francisco, July 24 (A.P.).—Early arrivals already in San Francisco for the Shrine convention, which opens here Tuesday for three days, filled in the time with a program of sports, sightseeing and religious services today.

Entertainment included a 25-mile scenic automobile trip of the city and environs, yacht racing, a double-header baseball game between the San Francisco and Oakland teams of the Pacific Coast League, an aquatic carnival and band concerts.

Double Wedding Bridegrooms Die.

Versailles, Ind., July 24 (A.P.).—George Hand and Nicholas Augustine, then 24 and 19, married Mollie and Margaret Copeland, sisters, in a double wedding sixty years ago. Yesterday the brothers-in-law were buried at a double funeral. They died within an hour of each other.

Demand for Dollar Wheat Is Spreading

Farmers of North Dakota Organize to Increase Price for Big Crop.

Minot, N. Dak., July 24 (A.P.).—The hold-for-dollar wheat movement in North Dakota was spreading today. Declaring they cannot make expenses at present grain prices, farmers have organized to boost the amount of the return they receive for their product.

With Federal estimates that North Dakota's wheat crop in 1932 may be 124,000,000 bushels, one-sixth of the Nation's total, an increase of one-third or more in the price will mean considerable.

First came the demand of one group that wheat be held for one dollar a bushel. Then followed a resolution at another gathering here urging an embargo on shipment of wheat from North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana until it reached $1.20 for No. 1 dark northern at Minneapolis. It now is 61 cents.

Indications today were that there would be no official embargo in the three States as requested by the Minot meeting, which 1,200 persons, mostly farmers from 11 counties, attended Friday.

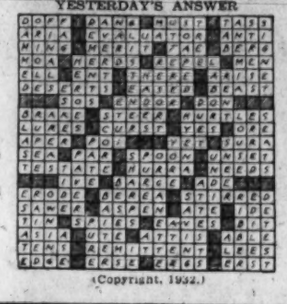
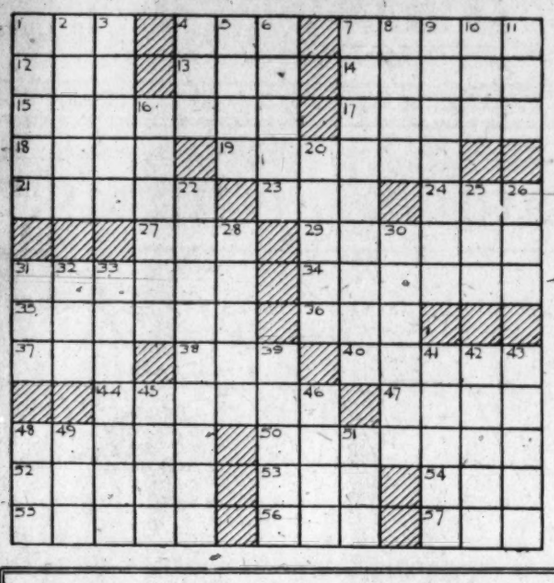
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER



(Copyright, 1932.)



Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE general impression is that these days most of the radio receivers are operated from the electric light socket and that the battery operated set is pretty much a thing of the past. A survey just completed by E. E. Horine, of the National Carbon Co., in New York, proves the contrary to be true.

Out of a total of nearly 30,000,000 families, something more than 9,800,000, or roughly one-third, live in homes without electricity, and therefore must use battery-operated receivers or do without radio.

The number of families in and around trading areas of certain cities which must depend upon battery sets are as follows:

Washington, D. C., 21,860; Chicago, 76,068; Detroit, 93,051; Kansas City, 137,159; St. Louis, 251,155; New York City, 208,414; Cincinnati, 132,531; Cleveland, 87,720; Pittsburgh, 156,448; Philadelphia, 161,504.

"Rural radio possibilities are probably greater both from a commercial and a social point of view than those in our cities. This is proven by the fact that nearly a third of all the homes in the United States are without electricity and must use the battery-type radio set or do altogether without radio," R. S. McBride, consulting engineer in Washington, said.

MRS. HARVEY S. FIRESTONE, Sr., has composed a ballad entitled "In My Garden," which Richard Crooks, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will introduce in the concert broadcast over WRC at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Station WTMJ, Milwaukee, Wis., will celebrate its fifth anniversary in a special program to be heard over WRC and a large N. B. C. network at 11:15 o'clock tonight.

CHARLES F. GANNON, who began his notable radio career at Station WRC in Washington, has been appointed chairman of the radio committee of the American Association of Advertising Agencies. He succeeded Maj. Howard Angus, another former Washingtonian, now in the radio business.

Mr. Gannon is the director of the radio department of Erwin, Wasey & Co., a large advertising concern, in New York. He presided at the recent advertising agencies radio session here at which Representative Ewin Davis, of Tennessee, and Senator Dill, of Washington, spoke.

What the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway will accomplish for American shipping will be the theme of Senator Hiram Bingham's address (WRC, 9 p. m.) during the National Radio Forum * * * Albert Payson Terhune, writer of dog stories, will be heard in a series of G. E. Circle programs (WRC, 11 a. m.) beginning today. * * * Brig. Gen. L. R. Gignilliat, superintendent of cadets at Culver Military Academy and a former member of the general staff of the A. E. F., will speak on "The Educational Benefits of Military Training for Boys" (WMAL, 3:45 p. m.) today. * * * The Boswell Sisters will harmonize "Runnin' Wild," "Candles in the Sky," and revive that hill-billy novelty, "Hand Me Down My Walkin' Cane" (WMAL, 9 o'clock) tonight. * * * Tribute to Frank J. Sprague, the "father of electric railways," will be paid by Rear Admiral S. S. Robison, U. S. N., retired, in a radio program (WJZ network, 9:30 o'clock tonight) on the occasion of Sprague's seventy-fifth birthday. The admiral and Sprague were in the same class at Annapolis.

NATS POUND OUT 12-TO-6 VICTORY OVER RED SOX

Vines Wins Singles Match to Seal Defeat of German Netmen

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THEY'RE sending Billy Landers and Benny Schwartz back into the ring again in the feature of the Twin City program at Laurel Wednesday night, and, according to the record books, Schwartz will be seeking revenge for the two defeats he was handed by the blond Norfolk sailor boy in the last two months.

But according to this department and a sizable minority who saw Landers receive two highly odious decisions, Landers, not Schwartz, is seeking vindication. Schwartz hit Landers with everything but the Marquis of Queensberry himself and for his efforts was voted the loser.

They ought to give Benny a new deal in the referee and judges and if Goldie Ahearn, his manager, is not derelict in his duty to Schwartz, he will demand a new lineup. The referee who handed the first decision to Landers served as a judge in the second bout.

Davis Cup supremacy never rested any more importantly on any single match than it does on the approaching Vines-Cochet meeting when the Americans play the French team this week-end at Paris.

Cochet figures to beat any other American singles player and is even held the favorite to defeat Vines when the young American Titan faces France's master strategist in one of the four singles matches. Should Vines fail to take the Cochet hurdle the likelihood is great that America's challenge will fall for the sixth straight year.

The doubles play of Van Ryn and Allison virtually assures America a victory in the doubles, but with three wins out of the five matches necessary to bring back the cup, the task of winning both his singles matches devolves upon young Vines in his first shot at Davis Cup competition. Frank Shields' poor form against the Germans who beat him twice makes Vines' job more crucial.

Weight differences put them all in the same class is an old adage of the turf, and it was surely proved Saturday when Equipoise ran second to Plucky Play in the $27,000 Arlington Handicap after having previously won seven straight stakes.

Equipoise ran a creditable race, like the champion he is, but not even a champion with 134 pounds on his back can give a colt like Plucky Play 23 pounds over a mile and a quarter of ground. Those 23 pounds brought Equipoise and Plucky Play together in a duel in the stretch and, with only 111 pounds on his back in that sinew-straining finish, Norman Church's colt was a better horse than Equipoise.

Heinie Manush is Walter Johnson's favorite ball player. Not that the Nats' manager is more indulgent toward the big Dutch left fielder than he is toward any other member of his team, but that he is more fond of Heinie at bat in a pinch.

"He's the kind of a ball player who will go out and win games for you," Johnson told this column down in Biloxi last spring, and I recalled that statement quite vividly when Heinie tripled twice and doubled twice against the Athletics, finally winning the game in the ninth inning.

Perhaps it's because Heinie shows no dislike for any kind of pitching, or perhaps he's just a great money player; but you can have Johnson's word for it, through this department, that when a ball game is needed Johnson would rather entrust the task to Manush than any other individual on the Nats' roster.

Youth Downs Von Cramm In 4 Sets

French Ired as Line Decision Favors American Star.

Shields, Outclased by Prenn, May Not Oppose France.

By FRANK H. KING.

PARIS, July 24 (A.P.).—Ellsworth Vines, jr., young American champion, again proved himself one of the world's great stars today, and, single-handed, carried the United States into the challenge round for the Davis Cup against France this week-end.

Vines, though slightly off form, defeated Baron Gottfried von Cramm, 3—6, 6—3, 9—7, 6—3, while Frank Shields, making an even worse showing than in his first match Friday, lost to Daniel Prenn, 6—1, 6—0, 6—8, 6—2, to give the Americans victory by the narrow margin of three matches to two over Germany's hard-worked two-man team in the interzone finals.

The Americans, however, received no thanks from France for routing the Germans from the flowery setting of Roland Garro's Stadium in the Bois de Boulogne. Through the three-day series the voluble French galleries were decidedly pro-German, and there is no Anglo-Saxon reticence about French tennis fans showing where their sympathies lie.

French Near Riot On Decision.

One demonstration against a line decision in Vines' favor in the critical third set of his match with Von Cramm threatened to develop into a riot. Many of the 8,000 spectators stood on the seats, wildly gesticulating and shouting against what they considered favor toward the American. Somebody started the shout of "Locarno! Locarno!" which it was supposed meant the Germans should be given a square deal.

The decision in question was a typically close base-line point, frequent in any tennis match. The French cheered and whistled encouragement to the Germans perhaps because they believed a German victory would make France's defense of the cup easier.

Vines started with a burst of speed and jumped into a 3-1 lead in the first set, only to suffer a let-down and lose five straight games and the set.

Vines Discards Cap And Sweater.

Off came Vines' white linen cap and sweater, and in the third game of the second set he won his first service in eight games. Gaining confidence, he increased his advantage to 4-2 and ran out the set at 6—3.

In the third set, Vines took a 4-2 lead, but his tennis was not convincing. Von Cramm kept him away from the net and his flat drives were not working. When the German broke through Vines' service in the twelfth game to bring the count to 6-all, it seemed anybody's match.

It was at this point the demonstration occurred against the doubtful line decision. Vines was a worried youth with furrowed brow, and groaned aloud at his inability to control his shots. The German led 7-6 before Vines, rallying bravely in the crisis, won his service after being 30 behind, broke Von Cramm's and then won his own again to take the set, 9-7.

After a 10-minute rest, Vines came back with his hair combed and his fevered brow cooled. Although he dropped the first game with only one point, he won the next three, broke Von Cramm's at love to lead 5-2, and finally won at 6-3.

Had Restless Night, Friends Say.

Vines' play proved clearly his resourcefulness on an "off day." He insisted there was nothing the matter with him except his opponent's fine play, but his friends said he feasted on pork and cucumbers yesterday and had a restless night.

Shields was outclassed by the swarthy Dr. Prenn and lost the first two sets in 10 minutes each. He did better in the third, when Prenn was tired, but after the rest period the German repeated the trouncings of the first sets for victory.

Shields' poor showing in the series caused popular belief he will be supplanted by Wilmer Allison in the challenge round.

French Select Davis Cup Players After Wrangling

Paris, July 24 (A.P.).—After two hours of wrangling, the French Tennis Federation today announced the team of Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra, Jacques Brugnon and Christian Boussus would represent France in the Davis Cup challenge round against the United States this week-end.

Borotra to the last insisted he was not capable of winning singles matches and advised the federation to choose a younger man, but in the end he was drafted. The exact line-up of the team will not be decided until the day of the draw, probably Thursday.

Rene Lacoste, one of the original "Three Musketeers" who won the cup from America at Philadelphia in 1927, is definitely out because of illness.

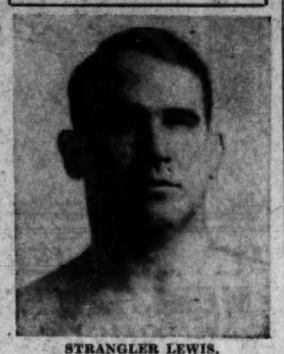
WRESTLES HERE



STRANGLER LEWIS, three-time world's champion, who has thrown Jim Londos, present titleholder, more times than has any other rival. He does his stuff at Bolling Field tonight.

LEWIS FACES M'LEOD TONIGHT

Strangler Tops Show at Bolling Field; Speer on Card.

THREE times a world champion and a heavyweight "rassling" standout for 15 years, Ed ("Strangler") Lewis once more dominates a grapple show tonight. Action starts at 8:30 o'clock.

In the open-air arena at Bolling Field the celebrated headlock specialist is to lock up with George McLeod in the main event of a match requiring two of three falls.

During the past year, the "Strangler's" signal victories over Dick Shikat, Sammy Stein, Leo Pinetzki, Fred Grobmier and innumerable others have established him at the top of the heap.

Confessedly displeased at the action which recently resulted in his disqualification when he allegedly strangled Shikat in a bout at Bolling, McLeod welcomes the opportunity of meeting another top flighter.

"I never rated being disqualified," he insists. "I had applied a legitimate headlock and the German was soundly whipped.

Takes No Chances With Lewis.

"I will take no chances with Lewis, however. I'll wear him down on leg work and, eventually, pin him with my flying head scissors."

The semifinal shot, in which Billy Bartush steps out against Frank Speer over a scheduled 45-minute route, also should resolve itself into a "grudge" fracas.

Although Billy won via disqualification when last bucking Speer, he was virtually slugged out of the picture.

Glenn Munn is scheduled 30 minutes against Joe Devito, while 20-minute shots offer George Manich vs. Arthur Dick; Fazal Daulu vs. George Calza, and "Bull" Komar vs. the "Masked Marvel."

Tickets are on sale at Goldie Ahearn's, ladies accompanied by male escorts being admitted free. A bus meets street cars at Howard road and Nichols avenue, across Anacostia Bridge, and transports fans to and from the arena without cost.

Browns and Tigers Divide in Double Bill

St. Louis, July 24 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns and the Detroit Tigers split the second of their three straight double-headers here today, 2 to 6, and 10 to 7.

In the first tilt the Tigers got the jump with four runs in the first inning, and easily held the lead. Two of the runs were homers by Walker and Rhiel.

The second game developed into a free-hitting spree, and although Wally Herbert was taken out after he was hit thirteen times in seven and two-thirds innings, he was credited with the game. It was his first victory of the year after suffering eight defeats.

D. C. Paddlers Win Point Trophy

Wash. Canoe Club's 44 Points Top Fine U. S. Title Field.

Fast Times Made Before Large Gallery Off Hains Point.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

AMASSING a total of 44 points, representatives of the Washington Canoe Club paddled home to victory in the national championship regatta of the American Canoe Association held yesterday on the Potomac off Hains Point. Ideal weather conditions and a well-balanced program attracted a crowd of several thousand spectators who witnessed the contests from points of vantage along the course. At the conclusion of the meet A. K. Shipe, representing Dr. George C. Havenner, chairman of the D. C. Bicentennial Commission, presented the point trophy to Harry Knight, veteran campaigner, of the winning club.

Remarkable times were recorded in all races, but, as it was the first regatta for the course, no records were smashed. In the senior one-man double-blade race, Ernie Reidel, sporting the colors of the Pendleton Canoe Club, New York, successfully defended his title for the tenth consecutive year by staving off a rally engineered by Knight in the final 50 yards.

Wilkie-Haas Make Fast Time.

Reidel, paired with Les Kruppa, made a brilliant finish in the tandem double-blade race, only to be nosed out by Fred Wilkie and Johnny Hass, of the Cacawa Canoe Club, who negotiated the half-mile course in 3:15 4-5, the fastest time of the day.

The crowd was treated to another thrilling finish in the junior tandem double blade event, when Odel Whipple and Everett Rodman, Washington Canoe Club, sprinted in the last 100 yards to nose out Harry Cullinane and Reggie Walker, of the Knickerbocker Club, New York. But the closest finish of all and the one that created the greatest excitement of the afternoon came in the intermediate four-man double blade, which was won by the Washington Canoe Club.

Four crews started the race, but a broken oar forced the Potomac Boat Club quartet out shortly after the event got underway. The three remaining crews, Washington, Inwood Club and Knickerbocker Club, battled neck and neck until they reached the stretch, when the eventual winners spurted to win over Inwood by half a length.

Grace Breaks Record For Errorless Catching

Pittsburgh, July 24 (A.P.).—When Earl Grace, hustling Pittsburgh Pirate catcher, handled his initial chance in the first game of today's double-header at Chicago, he set up a new record for chances accepted by a catcher without an error.

Pirate officials point out it was Earl's 285th consecutive play without a slip, passing Johnny Bassler's mark of 284. Bassler made his record in 1926 with the Detroit Tigers. Grace added three more chances to his total in the game.

Gomez Bests Grove to Beat A's

Yanks Wins, 9-3, as Foes Are Blanked Until Eighth.

Sewell Gets Five Hits in Row Including a Home Run.

NEW YORK, July 24 (A.P.).—Vernon Gomez outpitched Robert Moses Grove by a wide margin today in a duel between the American League's outstanding left-handers and, due largely to little Joe Sewell's hitting, the Yankees defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 3.

Gomez shut out the 1931 champions with only four hits up to the eighth inning and then an error helped deprive him of a shutout. The A's collected three hits in this frame. Bing Miller smacked a double with two on to break the Gomez spell and a misplay by Ben Chapman let another run tally.

Sewell made five straight hits, including his ninth home run of the season, which came with none on in the third inning. Ben Chapman stole his twenty-sixth base of the season in the same frame.

Yanks Lead After Second.

The Yanks led all the way from the second inning but it was the seventh which polished off the victory. The Yankees batted clear around against the great Lefty Grove, making five hits good for six runs. Lou Gehrig started the scoring with a triple with three on base and Frank Crosetti finished it with another three-bagger, driving home two tallies.

Warneke Pitches 15th Victory; Bush Bows in 2d Game.

CHICAGO, July 24 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh's Pirates preserved their four-and-one-half-game margin over Chicago today by splitting a double-header, dropping the first game to Lonnie Warneke, 7 to 2, and salvaging the second, 7 to 5.

Warneke racked up his fifteenth triumph of the season in subduing the National League leaders in the opener, giving only seven hits, and striking out five batsmen. Guy Bush was given a five-run lead in the second game, but wilted in the fifth and with Gus Suhr's home run with two aboard as the decisive shot, saw victory slip from his grasp.

One of the largest crowds in Wrigley Field history, nearly 51,000, saw Warneke smother the Pirates in the opener, with Charlie Grimm's three doubles and a home run by Johnny Moore, providing the necessary punch. The Cubs batted Heinie Meine out of action in six innings, and mistreated Irvin Brame somewhat during the next two.

ST. JOSEPH'S temporarily halted Columbia Heights' dash toward the pennant in Section B of the Capital City League by handing the latter their first defeat of the season in a bitterly contested game yesterday. The final score was 7-6. In another form reversal, the Franc Jewelers tacked a 6-4 defeat on Rock Creek Servicenter, while Federal Storage ran true to form by winning over Diamond Cab, 8-2.

In Section A, the Dixie Pigs chalked up their eighth consecutive victory at the expense of City Cab. The score was 13-8. Ciros nosed out Congress Heights, 3-2, and Horning Jewelers bested the Union Printers in the other games in this section.

With the exception of the fifth inning, when the losers scored all of their runs, Batson had Rock Creek Servicenter completely at his mercy. He held "Snitz" Nau's charges to eight blows, while his mates were pounding Ensor and Lanahan for 13.

The Dixies drove a quartet of runs over the pan in the third frame and added four more in the fourth inning to put the game on ice. The hitting of Stahl, Collier and Radtke figured prominently in the attack. Freddy Noone kept the Cabmen in the running with his timely hitting.

TURNER ADDS PLUMMER TO CARD

Ex-Notre Dame Gridman Meets Marshall at Park.

ONE change in Thursday's rassling fete at Griffith Stadium was announced last night by Promoter Joe Turner. The shift brings Lou Plummer, former Notre Dame football player, into the picture in place of Vic Christy. Plummer will engage Floyd Marshall.

In the main event, Jim McMillan, former University of Illinois star during the term of the great Red Grange, tackles Fred Grobmeier, the lanky Iowa exponent of the hook scissors.

McMillan is pointing for a local crack at Jim Londos, world's title claimant, but in Grobmeier he faces an opponent who specializes in spoiling the hopes of title contenders. McMillan has beaten every foe tossed his way, locally, except Londos and Gino Garibaldi.

One of the roughest matches in months is expected when Rudy Dusek and Chief White Feather collide in the semifinal. These two staged a bloody brawl last winter at the Auditorium, and need only duplicate that performance to stand the customers on their chairs.

Herman Hickman, who required but 45 seconds to win his debut here last week, returns for a 30-minute tussle with Jack Zarnas, while John Maxos and Pat O'Shocker dust off the mat in another preliminary.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON PARK, CHICAGO, JULY 24.

Managed to muscle home three winners here yesterday—Barn Swallow, Kneehigh and Gabbo—while crowding the money with my selections. Also did well at the other tracks, if you'll pardon me for so stating. Tred Avon failed me in the big race, but I called Equipoise right when everybody else expected the Whitney star to carry that 134 pounds home ahead.

At other tracks today, try these: Pete, Amour, Wood River, Bohemian Grove, Title Oak, Tela. BILL.

FIRST RACE—CLEAR was beaten by a head by Poppyman in his only start and exhibited enough speed to take care of this group. OLD JUDGE has been showing to good advantage and may be second ahead of EATEMUP.

SECOND RACE—MEETING PLACE has improved to the extent that he must be considered carefully in fields of this kind. Renick probably will ride, and I see no reason this one can't step down. ROLLING SEA seems to have an edge on MORE POWER for the place.

THIRD RACE—LITTLE AMERICAN drops down a trifle in taking these on, and she should have the best of DORIS JEAN, which is my place selection. Third to MILD.

FOURTH RACE—SILVERDALE is much the best of this crew, I do believe. DYAK appears to be the one to beat, and HIGHER third best. The last-named is dangerous, if he runs his race.

FIFTH RACE—FIDDLER is a swift sprinter and may be benefited by Robertson's riding. IMPISH drops weight and should beat out ULUNIU.

SIXTH RACE—GLORITONE failed to get away properly the last time and may get better racing luck tomorrow. LLANDAFF'S last was a beaut. Third money for MISS BUNTING.

SEVENTH RACE—MAD CAREER is long overdue and is in keen shape. This is another that I believe Renick can win with. GOOD AND HOT to step home ahead of WILLIAM T.

EIGHTH RACE—CHU CHU with every once in a while and this looks like the spot. OLD DEPOT for second and ETIWANDA for third.

Beaver Dam Golf Tourney Is Captured by McCarthy

M. McCARTHY won the golf committee tournament yesterday at Beaver Dam Club by scoring a fine 74, two over par. C. H. Phillips was second, with 79.

Though he went over par on four holes by one stroke, McCarthy registered four birdies and equaled par on on the incoming nine. His card:

Par out ..... 4 4 5 3 4 4 4 4 4—36
McCarthy out:
6 4 4 5 4 4 4 4 4—39
Par in ..... 5 4 4 4 3 4 5 3 4—36
McCarthy in:
4 3 4 5 4 5 5 3 3—36

McCarthy and Cliff Spencer, professional, will perform in the Bedford Springs (Pa.) amateur-pro tournament next Sunday and Monday. There will be an amateur-pro event of 18 holes on the first day and a 36-hole open competition the second day.

Beaver Dam women golfers will hold a blind bogey tournament Wednesday.

The Women's District Golf Association today will stage an 18-hole medal, handicap allowance, tournament at Chevy Chase Club in celebration of the award of trophies to winning teams in the recent team competition. Columbia Club receives the first team prize and Army and Navy, second.

Entries for the sectional qualification rounds of the U. S. amateur championship will close tomorrow at 8 p. m. with the office of the U. S. G. A., 110 East Forty-second street, New York City. The tournament is open to all amateurs affiliated with member clubs of the association who have handicaps of four or less. The qualifying for golfers of this section will be held at Chevy Chase Club.

25 Bouts Booked On Benefit Show

Free Boxing Card Offers Walker and Berg at Park Tomorrow.

Two wrestling bouts last night were added to the mammoth boxing carnival to be staged tomorrow night in Griffith Stadium for the benefit of the Volunteers of America Children's Home. Joe Turner, local mat impresario, donated to the committee the services of a quartet of the athletes who work under his charge in professional exhibitions.

The carnival, according to plans of Jimmy Lake, master of ceremonies, will be the biggest affair of its nature ever witnessed in Washington. Besides more than 25 bouts, involving both amateurs and professionals—including such nationally known figures as Mickey Walker and Jack "Kid" Berg—the card will introduce numerous musical and comedy acts.

Admission will be free, but the public will be given an opportunity to contribute to the children's home through collections that will be taken by nurses of the Red Cross and Emergency Hospital and Girl Scouts.

AMERICAN LEGION SERIES.

George Washington Post sprang a surprise in the American Legion series by downing the leading Spengler Post nine, 8-5, in a hard-fought game. Bunker Hill Post triumphed over Lincoln Post, 20-6, in the only other game played.

Midget Pitcher In No-Hit Game

Bell, Wonder Bread, Beats Thompson's, 16-0, in League Contest.

"Roddy" Bell hurled a no-hit, no-run game yesterday as the Wonder Bread midgets advanced a step closer to the title in the midget division of the Capital City League by shutting out Thompson's Furniture Co. nine, 16-0. So effective was Bell's twirling only two men reached first base, one on a free pass and the other on an error. He completed his fine performance by "picking off" these two before they could make further progress on the bases.

"Zip" Poole's charges pounced on Roache for 13 hits, which were coined into the winning markers with the aid of some untimely errors by the Thompson fielders. Giovenetti, Crenshaw and Harris topped the winner's attack.

Golf Field of 84 In "Uptown" Event

Eighty-four golfers tee off this morning, beginning at 7 o'clock, in the first annual "Uptown" tournment at Rock Creek public links. Today's play will consist of qualifying and prizes will go to the low scorer and runner-up. Match play is to begin tomorrow. George Molloy, Washington public links champion, and Ted Burrows, twice former city champion, are entered, as are many other leading public park players.

Baseball Under Arcs At Stadium Tonight

Night baseball will be featured locally for the first time tonight. At Griffith Stadium, 8:30 o'clock, the Washington Pilots are to step out against those enterprising Pittsburgh Crawfords in the inaugural of the second-half East West League play.

Backed by one of the most alert and best rounded clubs in colored baseball today, William Bell, three-time leader of the Cuban National League, is to pitch for the visitors. Ted Trent, curve ball artist of the Pilots, is to oppose him.

Spurting furiously in the waning stages of first-half league play to rise from seventh to third place, the Pilots tonight will be pointing for a second-half pennant.

WALDENMAIER ILL.

Operated on yesterday for an attack of acute appendicitis, Bill Waldenmaier, catcher-manager of the Federal Unionists, has been lost to the team for the remainder of the season.

The Unionists will hold a meeting this evening at 5 o'clock to elect Waldenmaier's successor. All players, including Bill Gamble, are asked to attend the confab, slated for 10 B street southwest.

2 PEDESTRIANS DIE; HIT BY AUTOMOBILES

Charles Christensen Victim at Hyattsville; Colored Man Also Killed.

Charles Christensen, 65 years old, of Hyattsville, Md., was fatally injured last night when struck by an automobile on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard at Hyattsville.

He was taken to Casualty Hospital, where he died an hour after being admitted. Death was attributed to internal injuries and a fracture of the skull.

Mr. Christensen was walking on the roadway when he was knocked down by an automobile operated by Robert Matsudaire, of Edmonston, Md.

Sidney Hawkin, 22 years old, colored, of Hughesville, Md., was instantly killed yesterday when struck by a hit-and-run driver near Bryantown, Md. There were no witnesses to the accident.

Two Robbers Get $131 After Buying Gasoline

Two young bandits robbed the Logan Motor Co., 1810 E street northwest, of $131 early today after binding and gagging J. R. Edwards, the night manager. Driving up to the filling tank in a large sedan, they had purchased gasoline. When Edwards entered the office to make change, the men followed, one drawing a gun and binding him while the other robber rifled the cash drawer.

With only his arms bound, Edwards walked outside a few minutes after the pair escaped and summoned help.

Man on Picnic Drowns In Creek Near Annapolis

Lorenzo Washington, 33, colored, of 1318 R street northwest, was drowned in Back Creek, near Annapolis, Md., when he stepped into deep water while on a picnic yesterday.

He was with relatives and friends. He disappeared while bathing in the creek. His body was recovered 20 minutes later. Efforts to revive him were futile. A certificate of accidental death was issued.

Poison Dose Is Fatal To 21-Year-Old Wife

A quantity of poison she is alleged to have swallowed earlier in the week, last night proved fatal to Mrs. Ethel H. Perry, 21, of 42 R street northwest. She died in Gallinger Hospital.

Mrs. Perry was said to have taken the poison while in a room of her home. She was removed to Sibley Hospital and later transferred to Gallinger.

Analysis of Picnic Food Due Today

Only One of 400 Poison Victims Remains in Hospital Here.

As Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer, continues his investigation into the poisoning of hundreds of picnickers on the dairy outing down the Potomac River last Thursday, one victim still remains in the hospital.

Out of the 400 persons who were stricken after partaking of the picnic lunch at Marshall Hall, 3-year-old Genevieve Gary, of 4801 Forty-first street northwest, remained last night under the care of physicians. Her condition at Children's Hospital was described as "improved."

Dr. Fowler said that by tomorrow the cause of the poisoning would probably be known. An analysis of the food used on the outing will be completed by then, he declared. Leftovers from the picnic were turned over to chemists in the District Health Department.

Taximan Robbed Of Cab and Cash

Passenger Binds and Gags Him, Takes Watch and Drives Off.

An armed holdup man last night bound and gagged Robert M. Floodas, 30 years old, a taxicab operator of 1627 R street northwest, and then drove away in his cab, after looting his pockets of 80 cents and taking a wrist watch valued at $25.

The holdup man hired Floodas at Sixteenth and S streets northwest and directed him to Ninth and Peabody streets northwest where the holdup occurred. Floodas unloosened the ropes about his hands and feet and reported the holdup to Sergt. J. E. Boyle.

He described the holdup man as 30 years old, weighing 150 pounds, and wearing a brown suit and brown hat.

Police Say Man Took Poison in Suicide Try

Eugene C. Masieer, 35, of Park Lane, Va., was in serious condition at Walter Reed Hospital from the effects of poison which he swallowed at his home yesterday.

He was taken to Emergency Hospital by his brother Eiffell Masieer and was removed to Walter Reed after first-aid treatment. According to police, he took the poison with suicidal intent.

IDEALS OF RELIGION HELD HIGHEST GOAL

Rev. C. H. Jope Discusses Things Molding Life at Temple Heights.

"Whatever you are willing to pay for the things of your life will determine your character," said the Rev. Clifford H. Jope, of the Ninth Street Christian Church, speaking yesterday at a special service on Temple Heights.

"There are many things we can avoid making up our minds on, but one thing we can not avoid is building a life. Whatever you are willing to pay for the material will determine the kind of a life it will be," the Rev. Mr. Jope continued.

"One can gain wealth, power, physical comfort, position, if he is willing to pay the price. This is an age in which material things appeal. It is the day of the fastest planes, instant communication, tallest buildings, greatest ships, finest athletics, richest banks, beautiful cities, powerful armies and long-range guns. It is an age of inventions, of thrills and stock markets.

Man Molds Own Life.

"That thing to which you bow down will be the Lord of your life and make your character. It may be in the realm of material things that you submit yourself to physical appetite. A young man may become a doctor, lawyer, musician, if he is willing to pay material costs and devote himself to study in the chosen field. You can have money, political power, thrills and cheap notoriety by paying the price.

"Or you can build your life upon an idealistic basis, if you so choose.

"Jesus believed himself divinely called to reveal God to man and give to the race the principles upon which God might reign in the world. He went to the cross pursuing this ideal.

"Woodrow Wilson believed this world should be politically federated. He stumped the country in behalf of the ideal of world brotherhood and the League of Nations. His body and mind were shattered when he pursued his ideal beyond his strength. He paid the price for a great ideal."

Lincoln Pursued Ideal.

"Abraham Lincoln believed that in a democracy no slavery could exist. He pursued that ideal and was met by an assassin's bullet, but he goes down in history as the great emancipator.

"I do not mean that those in pursuit of the physical or of mental attainment are not spiritual. They may be. But there are those who believe with Jesus when he asked, 'What shall it profit a man if he gain all things and lose God?' The things of the spirit are worth more than the things of the flesh or the mind. The cultivation of the divine in us is the highest occupation of man. Those attributes of love, service, sacrifice, sharing, peace, forgiveness, kindness, justice, mercy and truth should be king of our life that they may determine our characters to be like unto God Himself, in whise image we were made."

Confession Held No License to Sin

Man Should Really Try to Amend His Life, Says Morris Fay.

"The sacrament of confession is not a license to commit sin, as many people suppose," said Morris Fay, in an address yesterday afternoon to a meeting of the Catholic Evidence Guild on the grounds of Catholic University.

"It is manifest," he said, "that the man who presumes to receive the sacrament of penance without the proper dispositions, that is, without a firm resolution to amend his life, not only does himself no good, but instead, he commits a great sacrilege, because he had abused the means that Christ instituted for his salvation.

"Catholics believe in the frequent use of this great means of grace, because it helps them to break bad habits and to form good ones. Nor do they consider it an unmanly thing to kneel at the feet of a fellow man to confess their sins. The priest in the confessional is the properly ordained minister of Christ who has received through the unbroken line of his predecessors the power to bind and loose."

$85 Reported Stolen From Clothing.

Gustave Edward Anderson, 213 Eighth street southwest, reported to police yesterday that $85 was stolen from his clothing while he was visiting at 950 F street southwest.

Player Breaks His Leg Scoring Run for Team

It cost William C. Fisher, 25, of 3732 Kanawha street northwest, a broken leg yesterday to score a run for his baseball team, playing on a vacant lot at Forty-first and Livingston streets northwest.

Fisher was on third base when one of his teammates hit a Texas leaguer. The play at home plate was close. Fisher slid in and was declared safe by the umpire, but the strain on his right leg had been too great. At Georgetown Hospital doctors said the leg was fractured. "But I was safe," Fisher grinned.

Firemen Save Boy, 2, Locked In Bathroom

Arnold Zimmerman, 2-year-old visitor at the home of his uncle, Hyman Zalkind, at 534 Randolph street northeast, was held a virtual prisoner in the bathroom of his uncle's home for nearly an hour yesterday when the door slammed and locked while the little boy was industriously brushing his teeth.

His cries attracted attention of his uncle, whose efforts to open the locked door were vain. A call to the fire board brought members of No. 24 Engine to the scene, and after much labor the door was finally battered in and little Arnold released.

Arnold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Zimmerman, of Alexandria, Va.

World-Wide Bridge Contest Is Planned

Benefit Tournament Starts Nov. 11; U. S. Players to Vie With European.

Plans are progressing rapidly for the International Contract Bridge Tournament to be played this fall for the benefit of the American Legion War Memorial in Paris and the unemployed of the United States.

The match will be the largest bridge tournament ever played. Its purpose will be the selection of an all American Contract Bridge team, which will play European teams for international honors. Lieut. A. M. Gruenther, of this country, will be referee in the series of games.

Local elimination contests will be played November 11 and 12, followed by State tournaments, November 16 and 17. The winning pairs from each State, 96 players in all, will go to New York for the finals. The final tournaments will be played November 25 and 26. District of Columbia and Maryland headquarters are in room 348 of the Munsey Building.

PARADE WILL OPEN CARNIVAL TONIGHT

Holy Comforter Church Is Sponsoring East Capitol Patriotic Festival.

A large George Washington Bicentennial parade will open the Holy Comforter Bicentennial Carnival at 7 p. m. tonight. The carnival will be held on the school lawn of Holy Comforter Church, Fifteenth and East Capitol streets.

The parade will be composed of 75 floats, sponsored by local business firms, 300 children and 300 young women in colonial costumes and four bands. The parade will proceed through Southeast and Northeast Washington. It is said to be the first time a patriotic parade has been especially arranged for East Washington.

Joseph L. Gammell, president of the Lincoln Park Citizens Association, is general charman of the carnval committee, and Lieut. Col. William L. Peak is general chairman of the parade committee. Col. Peak will have as his guests in the parade several members of the Bicentennial Commission.

The Rev. J. A. Nestor, assistant pastor of Holy Comforter Church, is honorary chairman of the parade committee. He is being assisted by a committee of 100 young men and women from the combined societies of the church.

Starting at Seventeenth and E streets southeast, the parade will move west on E street southeast, to Kentucky avenue, to Thirteenth and B streets southeast, through Thirteenth to B street northeast; west on B street northeast to Twelfth street, north on Twelfth to E street northeast, east on E street to Fifteenth street, south on Fifteenth street to Massachusetts avenue southeast.

A popularity contest will be a feature of the carnival. Any girl living in the city is eligible to enter.

Novena for St. Anne Will Close Tomorrow

The novena in honor of St. Anne, mother of the Blessed Virgin, which is being held in the Church of the Immaculate Conception will close at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow morning with a special service. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney will be celebrant at benediction.

Petitions for spiritual and material favors which have been received during the novena will be placed at the Shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre in Quebec, when Father Hurney and his pilgrims visit there. Father Hurney is conducting a ten day pilgrimage to the shrine. The group sails from New York on August 3.

Ice Cream Store Robbed.

Four gallons of ice cream and a small quantity of candy were stolen from a store at 1620 Rhode Island avenue northeast, according to a report to police yesterday by John Waalschlager, proprietor.

DR. PORTER WARNS OF 'THINGS UNDONE'

His Sermon at First Baptist Tells of Dangers in Neglect of Duties.

"How much richer our character would be, how much more tranquil our conscience, how much larger our service, if we would overcome the inclination to neglect the doing of things that we ought to do," declared Dr. Samuel Judson Porter, preaching at the First Baptist Church yesterday morning.

Speaking on "Things Undone," Dr. Porter said, in part:

"Of Joshua, the great Hebrew general, it was said, 'He left nothing undone of all that the Lord commanded Moses.' Darwin's biographer relates that the great scientist's golden rule was 'taking care of the minutes.' And thus he became richer and more accurate in knowledge, writing his wonderful books, instructing his own and future generations.

"Often we deal negligently with those about us until change or death takes them away. Then we are miserable with the thoughts of so many things forgotten, with regrets of so many things which might have been repaired. Church membership is based on a covenant which may be ignored only at the peril of irreparable spiritual loss.

Time for Weightier Matters.

"Through shirking and postponing opportunities are lost, as when in Gethsemane the disciples slept while they ought to have been watching with their Master.

"As with the scribes and Pharisees who 'paid tithes of mint, anise and cummin,' but omitted the weightier matters of the law, such as judgment, mercy and faith, we are prone to exaggerate the importance of some minor matter of conduct, all the time neglecting the greater qualities and obligations.

"There has never been a time when it was more necessary for the people of America to give attention to 'the weightier matter' than at this time. The minor things ought to be done, but if anything is left it ought not be 'the weightier matters.'

Opportunities Forfeited.

"Great principles are too often left out of our character because they are difficult to acquire and maintain, great duties are ignored because they mean heroism and suffering, great opportunities are forfeited because they demand promptitude and resolution, great works are declined because they involve consecration and sacrifice.

"What is the deep meaning of the parable of the talents, the slothful servant who hid his master's money in the earth? It was simply a question of doing nothing. We are reminded that the things undone are things for which we must be held responsible.

"The man was blamed and condemned for what he had left undone, unattempted, the undone being worse than the badly done, the unattempted being worse than failure. The shadow of the undone is one of the deepest shadows of life and no doom is more terrible than that of the servant who was too slow and too indifferent to make a start."

Flames Raze Barn; Horse Later Shot

Animal Severely Injured; Damage Caused by Fire Put at $1,000.

Burned by flames which destroyed a barn at First and K street southeast yesterday, a horse stabled in the shelter had to be shot by police.

Theodore Johnson, colored, of 319 L street southeast, noticed the burning structure and ran into the barn and led the horse out. Injuries to the animal made its shooting necessary.

The animal was owned by Arthur Rawling, colored, of 1675 Boulevard road southeast. Damage caused by the fire was estimated at $1,000.

Motorcyclist Suffers Possible Skull Fracture

Vernon Stores, 18, of 218 Channing street northeast, suffered a possible fracture of the skull and lacerations of the body when he was knocked from his motorcycle on the Marlboro pike, near Marlboro, Md., yesterday.

He was taken to Casualty Hospital by Vincent Austin, of Mount Rainier. Stores was unable to give police an account of the accident. His condition is not thought to be serious.

Manager of Oil Station Tied Up After Robbery

Two men carrying pistols held up and robbed the manager of a gas station at Second street and Massachusetts avenue northeast yesterday, escaping with $12.

William Pratt, 49, of 4333 Kansas avenue northwest, was held up by the two men, who tied him up after taking the money and escaped. Pratt managed to release his bonds and summon police.

Insurance Group Has Beach Outing

Athletic Events Are Among Features of Program of New York Life.

One hundred employes of the local branch of the New York Life Insurance Co., their families and friends, attended an outing at Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach, Saturday, which was featured by athletic events, a baseball game and a dance.

Prize winners in the athletic events were: Potato race, Miss Josephine Beckley and George W. Rothkopf; three-legged race, Miss Travis and Charles Gifford; wheel barrow race, Charles Stone and A. W. Boehringer. The office staff baseball team, captained by Earl D. Krewson, defeated the agents' team, captained by Loren L. Cluster, by score of 15 to 13.

The committee in charge of the outing was composed of David Samakow, chairman; Mr. Cluster, Mr. Rothkpf, Frank J. Sobotka, Sidney Simon and Ralph Cipriano.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IN THE sudden death of Florenz Ziegfeld, in the very midst of what seemed an assured convalescence, the amusement world loses a genius who was as conspicuously a leader in his wing in the theater as the late David Belasco was in his.

Beginning with the days of his induction into "show business" at the time of the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893, when, as a youthful impresario, he plucked Eugene Sandow from obscurity and made him one of the greatest box-office attractions of the period, Flo Ziegfeld was what might be termed an innovator. He was always at least one full jump ahead of his contemporaries in anticipating the vagaries of public taste and so came down through a procession of 40 eventful years always a pioneer.

It is a bit of a misconception, I think, to hold that beauty was ever the chief aim of the Ziegfeld productions. In the early years of his career daring seemed rather to strike the keynote of his efforts. The Anna Held vehicles were anything but soporifics; the first "Follies," in 1907, and several that immediately followed, were as artistically shocking as anything that had reached the light musical stage in America up to that time. When rivals challenged his leadership in this field, he permitted them to make nudity obnoxious and the piquant merely pernicious, while he turned his attention to the pursuit of the rich, the beautiful and the true. "Rio Rita," "Show Boat" and "The Three Musketeers" stand as splendid monuments to this phase of his greatness.

Even in reverting to an earlier musical comedy form in "Hot-Cha," while his associates were straining toward satirical sophistication, the "old master," in thought, still was a pace ahead.

But now Flo Ziegfeld ("Ziggy") and his master touch are gone. There is no one standing by to step into his shoes. His place will long be vacant.

Mrs. Sidney Thomas, managing director of the American Theater Society of Washington, which rises, Phoenix-like, from the mingled ashes of the Theater Guild and the Professional Players subscription groups, sounds a heartening note for the new season by announcing that to date the season subscriptions for the new society, whose productions all will be seen in the National Theater, exceed those of the Guild and Professional Players of last season.

Six plays will be presented on the subscription program for the season of 1932-33 at the National, beginning on October 24 with the Theater Guild production of "The Pure in Heart," with June Walker and Osgood Perkins.

If you have not already done so, now would be a fine time to register your subscription by calling National 0501, 0502 and 0503. They can't ALL be busy!

C. Henry Gordon's is the ubiquitous shadow this week. He is the doctor in Mrs. Rinehart's "Miss Pinkerton," at the Earle, and Voronsky, the bandit chieftain, in "The Roar of the Dragon," at RKO-Keith's.

Speaking of RKO-Keith's, the best laughs of the week are piled up on the bill with "The Roar of the Dragon" in Frank McHugh's comedy, "Pete Burke, Reporter," and the Tom and Jerry cartoon, "Redskin Blues." With the "Dragon" as good as it is, it seems too bad to shoot so much swell material all on one program. But if you're looking for a bargain, there it is!

If one were to bother to penetrate the thin veneer of good nature that covers the contsant flow of caustic comment upon show business, the theater in which he is playing, its personnel and America in general that interlards the incessant chatter of Davey, the British comedy juggler at the Earle, I suspect it would find it is only a defense mechanism set up against an inferiority complex.

What! Those miniature golf courses are really coming back to life?

Arthur Moore Dies; Seved in Two Wars

Chevy Chase Man Retired From I. C. C. Service Last Year.

Arthur A. Moore, a veteran of the Spanish-American and World Wars, died yesterday at his home, 108 Underwood street, Chevy Chase, Md., following a protracted illness. He was 54 years old.

Mr. Moore was past adjutant general of the United Spanish War Veterans and a member of Gen. Fitzhugh Lee Camp, U. S. W. V., Richmond, Va. During the World War he served as a supply sergeant in the Infantry. He was a member of the U. S. Volunteers in the Philippine Islands in 1899. Relocation of Cab Stands Expected

Public Utility Commission Orders Survey; U Turn May Be Eliminated.

Relocaton of taxicab stands, including abolition of exclusive space near hotels, is expected to result from a survey ordered by the Public Utilities Commission.

The commission intends to readjust the cab stands on the basis of authority granted in the new District license code. The director of traffic, under the new law, will designate stands only upon order of the commission. In relocating stands, the commission will seek to eliminate the U turn and other causes of traffic congestion.

The commission plans to grant the use of taxicab stands at hotels to the vehicles of any concern, abolishing exclusive rights. A legal battle is expected to follow the issue of such an order. Inspector E. W. Brown, assistant superintendent of police in charge of the Traffic Bureau, is conducting a check-up of cabs to determine if new licenses have been obtained.

Southern Society Takes Moonlight Trip Tonight

The annual moonlight excursion of the Southern Society of Washington will begin from the Seventh street wharves at 8 p. m. today on the steamer City of Washington. The society will have exclusive use of the boat.

In the absence of Representative Menalcus Lankford, president of the society, J. Cloyd Byers will preside. All arrangements have been made by the secretary, Miss Etta L. Taggert, and J. Franklin Little, financial secretary. Mrs. Maude Howell Smith, entertainment chairman, has provided a special program for the occasion.

Winner in Dice Game Is Robbed by Losers

Bennie Gordon, 29, colored, 1337 Corcoran street northwest, reported that he was held up and robbed of his winnings following a dice game in the vicinity of Ninth and O streets northwest yesterday, by two colored men who participated in the game. One of the men fired two shots at Gordon, he reported.

Two colored men were arrested by police of the Second Precinct for investigation in connection with the holdup.

Store Entered and Robbed of $18.

Thieves broke into a store owned by Tom Gavalis at 2206 Fourth street northeast yesterday, and stole $18 in change from the cash register. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass in a rear window.
